Stone To Lop Burns From Payroll

MENACE OF REDS SEEN AS SPOOK BY NEW OFFICER

Chief Investigator Believes Radicals Constitute Principal Threat Against Government.

RED RAIDS VIOLATE CONSTITUTION, STONE

Divergent Views of Two Officers and Burns' Friendships Believed To Spell Burns' Doom.

BY E. B. MACDONALD.

Washington, April 4.—Retirement of William J. Burns as chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice is expected to be one of the first developments after Harlan F. Stone takes over the office of attorney general.

Stone, it is understood, desires to build up his own staff of investigators. In addition to the national difficulties that would be expected from retaining one of his predecessor's closest personal friends, Stone and Burns are known to hold divergent views on a number of questions, notably that of dealing with radicals.

On the one hand, Stone openly has expressed himself as opposed to those who believe the United States government is in imminent danger of destruction at the hands of radical elements here, directed from Moscow through the Third Internationale.

Burns Sees Red Menace.

On the other hand, Burns regards the alleged growth of radicalism as the foremost problem confronting the government in general and his department in particular.

Recently Burns aided Secretary of State Hughes in presenting evidence of allied radical activities in this country to the senate Russian committee, and when called before the house appropriations committee he testified the "red menace" was so real that an appropriation of $2,200,000 to combat it would be needed for 1925.

He Opposes Raids.

Stone never has concealed his antagonism toward what he believed to be the illegal methods employed by former Attorney General Palmer in his campaign against the "reds," which reached its height in 1919. He stood with the liberal elements which fought against the "red raids," believing Palmer's activities to be a menace to constitutional rights.

At the hearing before the appropriations committee, Burns reiterated his previous charges that Moscow was directing radical activities here and further charged:

That the soviet government was responsible for strikes and radical propaganda throughout this country.

That in all strikes in the United States this radical propaganda enters.

Barely Escaped Revolt.

That during the coal strike of 1922 the United States barely escaped an armed insurrection.

That the Herrin riots were precipitated by "reds."

That there are no adequate laws on the statute books of the United States to suppress "red activities."

That they are in the army and navy.

That this radical propaganda is being spread in churches, schools and colleges.

That the "reds" attempted to break up the American Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers of America, but that these two organizations "purged themselves of the radical taint."

BANDIT STUTTERS, BUT USES PISTOL WHEN WORDS FAIL

New York, April 4.—A stuttering stick-up, who can't handle the king's English, but manages to make himself understood with a loose-tongued .45 automatic, is the latest addition to New York's eccentric bandits.

The stuttering one, with a couple of pals, called on Herman Klein at 236 First avenue Thursday night and left with $100.

The stutterer attempted to order Klein into a back room. He couldn't say it and just waved his gun.

Klein went.

Carolinas Give Nation New Yarn Of 2 Governors

Governor of North Carolina Says to Him of South Carolina, 'We're Dry.'

New York, April 4.—The governor of North Carolina and the governor of South Carolina busted another fond popular illusion here when they claimed that sentiment in both those states favors prohibition.

This has a political significance, they said, as there are indications that North and South Carolina will support W. G. McAdoo at the democratic national convention.

Nevertheless, although Governor McLeod, of South Carolina, expressed the belief that the south would not support a "wet" candidate, Governor Morrison, his neighbor, ventured the opinion that if Governor Al Smith obtained the democratic nomination, the south would stay as solidly democratic as ever in November.

COOLIDGE TO VETO NEW TAX LEVIES, HE TELLS SENATE

President Announces General Policy of Opposition To Imposition of Any New Tax Burdens.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, April 4.—While the senate finance committee, warned of a $75,000,000 deficit as a result of reductions now carried by the revenue bill, turned to means of raising new revenue, President Coolidge today announced a general policy of opposition to any new taxes.

Mr. Coolidge, while not expressing any specific attitude on the new taxes voted last night by the committee on radio and mah jongg sets, indicated he would approve new levies only if designed to shift the tax burden from a class or interest now heavily taxed to a class or interest which might without injury bear additional taxation.

Before taking up the remaining excise and miscellaneous tax rates, Chairman Smoot called attention to estimates which he said showed the bill as now framed would fail by about $75,000,000 to raise sufficient revenue in the next fiscal year.

No Bonus Provision.

This did not take into account $2,600,000,000 in special appropriation bills which have been introduced in congress and of which about $600,000,000 already has been approved by one house or the other. In this group he included the bonus bill.

Republicans and democrats of the committee held separate meetings this afternoon at which was considered

Kramer Testified To Save Himself Says Damp Body

First Dry Commissioner Turned State's Evidence To Stop Indictment.

Washington, April 4.—The first federal prohibition commissioner, John F. Kramer, turned government's evidence against Representative Langley, of Kentucky, and other officials in order to escape indictment himself, according to a charge made in a statement by the joint legislative committee for modification of the Volstead act.

"At last the government of the United States has been confronted with the shameful and humiliating spectacle of the first federal prohibition commissioner, John F. Kramer, slinking into a federal grand jury room, in Washington, and turning government's evidence against a member of congress and other high government officials, to escape indictment himself on a conspiracy to violate the prohibition act he was sworn to enforce."

Kramer, the committee said, was the appointee of the Anti-Saloon league and on leaving the government service was employed by the league at $25,000 a year.

Flanders Town Plays Ali Baba Role

WERE-WOLVES AND CEMETERY WORK LIKE JARS OF OIL

For Pere Maru and His Forty Thieves

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Pere Maru, bandit, robber, murderer and Flemish reincarnation of the famous Ali Baba, the glory of Arabian nights tales, sits in the old Burch Tower in Ghent waiting for the day when he and nine of his satellites and confereres will have their heads choped off in the time honored way in the little prison of St. Juste opposite the tavern of "The Lifted Axe."

Maru is but a nickname which means codfish. The robber was given this pet appellation by his friends on account of what they called a certain resemblance to the soulful eyes of a codfish lying in the sunshine on dry land.

The death sentence was passed upon Maru and his band during the eastern Flanders assizes and brought to an end a series of crimes which had terrorized the peasants of the low lands for a period of eighteen months following the armistice.

Taking advantage of the disorganization of the police during the period immediately following the cessation of hostilities, Maru and his friends swooped down on a village or hamlet and did not leave until they were loaded with loot and treasure.

The methods of operation were not without ingenuity. In one locality they appeared of an evening disguised as a German patrol. Armed with revolvers and dressed in old field grey uniforms with "pickelhaube" and high leather boots, they went about the matter of collecting money in the efficient German way of seizing a hostage or two and demanding 10,000 or 20,000 francs, including a good supply of wine and viands.

The protestations of the mayor or parish priest that the war was over did not avail a great deal in the face of loaded pistols. In two or three localities they were forced to shoot their hostages because the latter actually thought that they were in the hands of the enemy, and francstireurs patriotically opened fire on them from windows and roofs, as they had done so often during the days of enemy occupation.

In the village of Merlen, Father Maru adopted a wholly novel scheme

IMMIGRATION BILL TO DRAW HOT FIRE

House To Start Consideration of Johnson Measure Today With "Gag Rule" Suspended.

Washington, April 4.—Consideration of the restrictive immigration bill, introduced by Representative Johnson, of Washington, chairman of the house committee on immigration, will start Saturday, it was decided late Friday by the house.

Following an effort by Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the rules committee, to bring the measure up under suspension of rules which would limit debate. The house decided by a unanimous vote to consider the bill Saturday, without the "gag rule" in effect.

Bitter Fight Expected.

An even more bitter fight than was waged on the tax bill and Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals offer is expected to take place during consideration of the Johnson measure.

Not only have representatives from industrial centers where large foreign populations exist signified their intention of fighting the bill to the last, but foreign countries and the state department have asked that the bill be modified.

Clash on Jap Problem.

Antagonism to the measure is particularly tense among the elements in the so-called "Japanese situation." Congressmen from the Pacific coast have demanded that the Japanese be excluded entirely, while Japan and the state department have entered protests against any such action.

Secretary of State Hughes pointed out that legislation contemplated in the Johnson bill would violate the so-called gentlemen's agreement between Japan and the United States. Under this agreement the United States agrees to accept all Japanese with passports and Japan agrees to issue passports only to students, business men, etc., excluding the laboring or immigrant classes.

Important Sections.

Important sections of the measure are:

Quotas are based on the census of 1890 as against 1910 in the existing measure.

The percentage admissable is two as against three.

Wives, children under 18, and parents over 55 of American citizenship are exempted from the quotas.

Preliminary examination is made overseas.

AUTHORESS DIES; COMPLETES TOLL OF SUICIDE PACT

Richmond, Va., April 4.—Mrs. Tula Cummins, writer, died here late tonight, completing the double tragedy begun when she and her husband, Holmes Cummins, local insurance broker and clubman, shot themselves after agreement in their apartment Wednesday. Mr. Cummins died instantly when he sent a bullet through his head.

DIPLOMAT TIED TO COT TO BLOCK SUICIDE ATTEMPT

Fessenden, N. D., April 4.—George Henry Richardson, Jr., American vice consul at Auckland, New Zealand, tonight was lying strapped to a cot in the local county jail after several unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide.

Sicilian Lawyer Sends Challenge To Maeterlinck

Sporting Circles Wonder If Clash Will Be 10-Round Fistic Row.

Milan, Italy, April 4.—A challenge sent by Sebastiani Rondi, a Sicilian lawyer, living here, to Maurice Maeterlinck, the famous Belgian poet and playwright, because of an alleged defamatory article recently published concerning the poet's Sicilian trip, has aroused lively speculation in sporting circles here as to whether the affair will be by 10 rounds with the gloves or a duel with the sword or pistol.

Maeterlinck's prowess with the gloves is well known.

In his challenge to the poet, Signor Rondi is quoted as saying:

"I read with indignation and disgust your infamous article on your recent trip to Sicily published in a Belgian review and then reproduced in the Secolo in Milan on April 1. As a citizen of glorious Palermo, famed for its courtesy, I notify you herewith that I consider your ears boxed. I hold myself at your disposal."

Friends of Rondi have jokingly warned him to beware of April 1 publications.

Two Salvation Army Workers Hurt in Crash

Captain Brown and Mrs. Ford in Auto Hit by Trolley.

Captain Frank Brown, of the Atlanta Salvation Army staff, and Mrs. E. M. Ford, also a worker in that organization, were injured seriously early Friday night when thrown from the automobile in which they were riding when it was struck by a street car at Orme and Simpson streets.

Both were taken to Grady hospital, where it was found that Brown was suffering from a bad gash on his forehead, a bruised right arm and wrist, and cuts and bruises about his body. Mrs. Ford suffered severe lacerations and bruises.

Occupants of the automobile claim that the intersection where the accident occurred is what is known as a "blind corner," and that buildings preventing them from seeing the approaching street car. They claim that the trolley was traveling at a high rate of speed, and that it approached the corner without sounding any warning. The street car motorman contends that Brown, who was driving the auto, tried to beat the street car across the intersection. No cases were made pending investigation.

Auto and Car Crash.

A light touring car driven by J. R. Butler, of 295 East Hunter street, Friday night finished second in collision with a street car in the Grant street underpass. The automobile was badly damaged, and Butler suffered minor injuries. The accident occurred when Butler was blinded by the lights of the approaching car, and was unable to negotiate the narrow passage between the side of the car and the wall of the underpass.

Butler was going north and the outbound Soldiers' Home street car, in charge of Motorman F. M. Davidson and Conductor H. L. Adams, was going south. At the request of all parties, no arrests were made.

MEETING CALLED ON SCHOOL CHECK

Financial Situation Will Be Considered by Special Committee. Board To Fight Monthly Limit.

While school officials predicted failure of the Buchanan plan to put a monthly limit on the amount of money the school department may draw from the city treasury, the special committee designated Thursday by the finance committee to seek means of invoking such a limit was called to meet at city hall this morning to review charter and ordinance regulations affecting school finances.

The plan was advanced by Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the finance committee, to prevent the threatened closing of schools in September. He said that if the school department could be limited to spending one-twelfth of their annual appropriation each month, funds would still be available for schools after September.

To Exhaust Borrowing Capacity.

Alderman J. R. Bachman, chairman of the finance committee, advanced an additional reason for invoking a monthly limit when he called the special committee to meet today. He said that the city's borrowing power is limited by charter to $1,000,000. The city has already borrowed about $400,000, about $300,000 of which was borrowed to advance to the school department. At the present rate, he said, the school department would force the city to exhaust its borrowing power before it had collected the bulk of its general tax revenues and would involve other departments of the city government in as serious a financial shortage as the school board now is facing.

Board to Stay Put.

President John T. Hancock, of the school board, issued a statement Friday declaring that the school department would stand squarely on its charter rights to "spend the revenue allotted to schools as it sees fit and will not tolerate any councilmanic interference."

President Hancock said that the board is doing everything in its power to economize "without impairing the efficiency of the schools" and now has one committee at work to adjust the school budget by making every cut possible and another one to scrutinize carefully every dollar of expenditure.

The system of borrowing in anticipation of revenues to be collected later in the year is followed in all departments, he said, and the school department would brook no impairment of its rights to expect the same treatment.

3 of Family Die In Seven Hours; Fourth Is Dying

Aged and Pioneer Family Is Being Wiped Out by Attack of Pneumonia.

Ocilla, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—While friends kept a death watch Friday over the bodies of Richard Gray, 65-year-old bachelor, and Jane and Harriet Young, two aged cousins of the dead man, the third sister Mary, lay at the point of death from pneumonia, the same malady which had wiped out the three members of the family. Doctors stated that she could live but a few hours.

Mr. Gray and his three cousins have lived together on the Gray estate here for more than 40 years, following the death of the parents of the women. They never married. The three dead members of the family died in less than seven hours' time.

Funeral arrangements have been deferred awaiting the outcome of the attack on the younger sister.

DEMOCRATS BARE ARMS TO DEFEND NAME OF HARDING

Keynote Speeches of Republican Leaders Assailed in Senate as Assault on Dead.

WORLD COURT DYING IN CHARGE OF LODGE

Heflin, of Alabama, Suggests Elephant With Oil Can Tied to Tail as G. O. P. Emblem.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 4.—Democrats in the house and senate leaped gleefully into the first skirmish of the presidential campaign Friday with a counterblast against the republican keynoters, during which Minority Leader Robinson declared he would force a vote on the world court.

Democrats charged the republicans with hiding behind a dead president. They twitted Senator Lodge for pigeon-holing the world court proposal advocated by Harding and Coolidge. They accused the republicans of strewing the political lot with dead carcasses and then assailing democrats who tried to clear them away.

Forecasts Red-Hot Campaign.

Senators and congressmen piled in from the cloak rooms and lobbies to listen to the sizzling cross-fire. The curdling war whoops forecast one of the liveliest political campaigns in recent history.

Minority Leader Robinson led the charge in the senate by answering the accusation of Senator Pepper at Portland Thursday that the democratic investigators had aimed at the republicans and hit America.

"We did not aim at America when we shot point blank at Albert B. Fall," Robinson said. "We did not aim at America when we disclosed the machinations of Mr. Doheny and Mr. Sinclair. We injured nothing worth preserving when we referred to a grand jury the refusal of Sinclair to testify."

Put Blame on Dead.

Calling attention to Pepper's statement that Harding made grave mistakes in appointing Fall, Daugherty and Forbes, Robinson declared:

"He would make it appear that the dead and not the living are responsible for the wrong of which the country so rightly complains."

He then alluded to Pepper's statement that anyone who disturbed the

Mysterious Hand Puts Royal Name On Orlow Coffin

Despite Denials Aged Man Will Go To Tomb as Johann Salvator.

New York, April 4.—Although the Austrian consulate here denies that the late Dr. John Orlow could ever have been the Archduke Johann Salvator, cousin of Emperor Francis Joseph II, the body of the aged physician will be buried Saturday in a coffin bearing the inscription "Johann Salvator," placed there by a mysterious and unknown hand.

The funeral will be held at the Catholic church of St. Rose of Lima. Arrangements have been made by persons whose identity is kept as secret as that of the person who placed the name of the lost archduke, son of the Grand Duke Leopold II of Tuscany, on the silver plate of the casket.

Close friends of the late "Dr. Orlow," and his ward, Grace Wakefield, who killed herself the day after his death, are arranging now for the fashioning of a death mask from the dead man's features, so that more authentic identification may be made in the future.

The Austrian consulate, however, insists that the archduke, at the time of his disappearance from Vienna after he struck the emperor, was quite bald, whereas "Dr. Orlow," at the time of his death, still had considerable hair.

Asked For Soldiers To Guard Prisoners, Says His Assistant

Jake Lubin, Star Witness In Notorious Becker Trial in New York City, Was Principal Informant in Narcotic Probe, Declares Fletcher.

BURNS AGENTS, FORMER DENIZENS OF NEW YORK UNDERWORLD, IS CLAIM

Officials Say Smuggling of Drugs Here Has Decreased Since Dyche Lost Out—Appointment Is Seen As Reward For Aid to Jake Hamon.

Picturing J. E. Dyche, former warden of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, as a political "leech" who received his appointment because he was the lieutenant of the late Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil magnate and republican leader, and describing the heralded narcotic investigation at the prison as an attempt on his part to destroy the civil service system at the prison in order to appoint men of his own selection to various offices, L. J. Fletcher, deputy warden at the pen, Friday disclosed sensational aspects of the drug probe and of Dyche's administration.

His statement followed Washington dispatches which quoted Dyche as declaring on the witness stand before the senate committee investigating the department of justice that drugs are now being sold within the prison.

It was charged that the principal informant for the investigators who conducted the probe was the notorious Jake Lubin, star witness in the murder trial of Lieutenant Becker in New York city; and that the men Burns sent here to conduct the secret inquiry were formeg members of the New York underworld who later became agents for his private agency.

After the agents developed evidence sufficient to bring about the indictment of several men at the prison they left the local district attorney's office with "the bag to hold," it was claimed and did not appear as witnesses at the trials.

It was planned to arrest practically every guard at the prison, it was disclosed, and the department of war was requested for troops with which to discipline the prisoners pending completion of the probe, but Secretary of War Weeks declined to provide the troops.

Replying to Dyche's charge that drugs are now being sold in the federal penitentiary, Warden A. E. Sartain and Deputy Warden Fletcher declared that it is practically an impossibility to completely prevent the smuggling of drugs into the prison when visitors are passing in and out daily.

"It is difficult to keep drugs away from a place where there are more than 2,300 prisoners, especially when about 800 of them are drug addicts," Deputy Warden Fletcher said. "but we are certain that there is not as much smuggling of drugs now as there was during Mr. Dyche's administration."

SAYS DYCHE HAS LITTLE REGARD FOR TRUTH.

"During my 22 years' prison experience I have never met a man, either inside or out, who has less regard for the truth than Dyche," the deputy warden said.

Interrogated as to the circumstances under which Dyche was appointed and was replaced by Warden Sartain, Deputy Warden Fletcher declared:

"It is my belief that he held his position through an act of charity, and I further believe that it is an act of mercy that makes possible his liberty today." He made no explanation of this statement.

According to the story gathered from Deputy Warden Fletcher and from other federal officials in Atlanta, Dyche was given the appointment as warden at the Atlanta pen in reward for his successful managership of the late Jake Hamon's campaign for the office of republican committeeman from Oklahoma, and his ability or lack of ability did not figure in his selection.

In fact, according to Deputy Warden Fletcher, Dyche visited Leavenworth prison, Kansas, shortly before taking office here, and told Fletcher, who was then deputy warden at Leavenworth, that it was the first time he had ever viewed the inside of a prison.

It was Dyche's lack of experience and knowledge of prison management that caused the transfer of Fletcher, a man of many years' experience in prison management, to Atlanta as deputy warden. Fletcher had been connected with the federal penitentiary here in various capacities for many years previous to his stay at Leavenworth as deputy warden. It was when the late Roosevelt was president, 22 years ago, that Fletcher

DOPE RINGS WORK IN FEDERAL PENS

Peddlers Operate on Wholesale Scale in Atlanta Prison, Claims Former Warden.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, April 4.—(Special.)—Drug peddling among prisoners at the Atlanta federal penitentiary on a wholesale scale, which he said was "still going on," was bared to the committee investigating the department of justice Friday by J. E. Dyche, former warden at the Atlanta penitentiary.

Dyche said that Heber H. Votaw, superintendent of prisons, had stopped an investigation of the dope traffic at the penitentiary by agents of William J. Burns, head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, who he said would have stamped it out. Votaw stopped the investigation because he feared the publicity that might come out of it would injure prison discipline, Dyche said.

The former warden said he took a

New Clifton Avenue Presbyterian Church Will Be Discussed

Organization of a Presbyterian Sunday school in the Clifton avenue section, Sunday, will mark the first step in formation of a church in that district. Rev. William Huck, superintendent of the home missions board of the Atlanta Presbytery, will be in charge of the organization, and will conduct services at 9:30 and 11 o'clock. Services are to be held in a house on Hardendorf avenue, half a block from Clifton avenue.

Further plans for organization of the church will be made at a meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Edgewood Baptist church on Mayson avenue, which will be attended by a commission appointed by the Atlanta Presbytery and residents of the neighborhood, who have petitioned the Presbytery for a church. It is stated that 82 residents of that section have signed the petition.

When You Eat PERKERSON'S WATER-GROUND GRAHAM FLOUR

either as bread or as a breakfast food you will need no spring tonic. It tones up the system by eliminating the waste and furnishing iron and lime. It is also rich in that mysterious but very necessary food element Vitamin B.

Insist on Perkerson's Water-Ground Graham Flour because it is fresh, pure and wholesome.

WOODBURY OFFICER DIES OF WOUNDS NEGRO INFILCTED

Chief of Police Albert Wells, of Woodbury, Ga., died at a local hospital this morning from pistol wounds said to have been inflicted by Beach Thrash, a 15-year-old negro boy of Woodbury, who paid with his life at the hands of a mob late yesterday.

Officer Wells was said by witnesses to have been in the act of arresting the negro youth on a charge of theft, when turning in answer to a telephone ring, the boy seized the pistol and fired. The bullet entered the officer's head.

A mob later in the day stormed the Woodbury jail, secured the negro, and left in the direction of Flint river, where his body was later found. Policeman Wells was rushed to Atlanta for medical attention.

RADER TO ADDRESS BAPTIST WOMEN'S LEAGUE ON SUNDAY

Dr. Luke Rader, well known evangelist, who recently became identified with the Baptist Tabernacle, will speak at a meeting of the Business Women's league of the Second Baptist church, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the main Sunday school auditorium. His subject will be, "The Unseen Influence, Life's Greatest Factor."

Seevral other attractions, including songs by Mrs. Rader, have been announced by Mrs. F. J. Paxon, president. Reports of various committees also will be presented, and a large attendance is expected. The public is invited.

MAN SHOT BY COP FOR 'RUINING HOME' RAPIDLY IMPROVING

Waycross, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) The condition of J. C. Pittman, Waycross man, who was shot down Monday by Officer Long, of the Waycross police force, is steadily improving, and attending physicians believe that unless complications set in he will be out of danger soon.

Long is held in Ware county jail charged with assault with attempt to murder. He claims he shot because Pittman ruined his home.

$75,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE

A loss, estimated at $75,000, was caused by flames which destroyed the garage of the Atlanta Auto club, 329 Marietta street, about 3 o'clock Friday morning, cremating the negro night watchman, Jesse Brown, and his dog, who were asleep in the building at the time.

In addition to destruction of the building, 15 trucks and six passenger cars were lost in the blaze, which had gained great headway before the fire department could be summoned. The roof of the building collapsed as the fire fighters arrived.

The Pan-American Southern Petroleum company, which lost six large oil trucks in the fire, was listed as the heaviest loser. Others whose machines were destroyed by the flames were H. E. Harris, of Boston, who had stored his machine for the night while en route home from Florida; the Heard-Bell Furniture company; H. E. Linardy, W. W. Bealleau and E. L. James.

The building was owned by Charles Loridans, of 16 West Fifteenth street. The garage was operated by D. E. Linardy and J. E. Smith.

Most of the damage is believed to have been covered by insurance.

There Are Hams and Hams But Only One Supreme

Each Supreme is a ham selected from many—chosen because of its perfection and then cured to a mild mellowness you could not expect in an ordinary ham.

Inside Facts on Meat Packing

Fresh meat is sold at wholesale at the prevailing market price, and the cost of the product is not always the determining factor in fixing this market price. Since fresh meat is perishable, it must be sold for what it will bring while it is in the best condition.

$98,000,000 CUT IN OFFICE BUDGET

Washington, April 4.—The independent offices appropriation bill carrying $349,000,000 for the veterans' bureau and $30,000,000 for the shipping board was passed late today by the house and sent to the senate.

As approved the bill totaled approximately $399,000,000 or $98,000,000 less last year.

Amendments approved included one by Representative Hull, republican, Iowa, which would require the shipping board and other government agencies provided for in the bill to call for bids from navy yards for supplies and repairs and to award them contracts if their estimates were lower than private concerns.

Another amendment approved, offered by Representative Carter, democrat, Oklahoma, would limit salaries of shipping board officials of $10,000 or more to one at not more than $20,000 and four not to exceed $15,000 a year.

By a vote of 196 to 170 the house retained an amendment adopted yesterday increasing the allotment for the federal trade commission from $850,000 to $940,000.

Organized Bodies Helping Georgia May Be Combined

A conference will be held Tuesday in the office of Governor Clifford Walker between members of the subcommittee of the Georgia development commission and J. C. Williams, industrial agent of the Southern railroad. At this time a proposed plan for uniting all bodies formed to promote the interests of the state will be discussed, it was stated.

Brewster's Wife Would Stop Sale Of Corliss Gems

New York, April 4.—Process servers, acting for Mrs. Eugene V. Brewster, wife of the millionaire publisher, threatened to interrupt the sale of furniture and effects from the sumptuous Morristown, N. J., home which Brewster built and has maintained for Corliss Palmer, southern beauty.

Only the fact that papers were served on persons in the salesroom where the auction of love nest furniture and trappings was going on and that they represented litigation involving a sum in the neighborhood of $200,000 could be verified Friday night.

The auction was billed as a clearance of the "sumptuous furnishings and art objects removed from Morristown by order of Eugene V. Brewster; and furs and diamonds by order of Miss Corliss Palmer."

The first article under the hammer was a tin clothes boiler. It brought a quarter.

The sale will continue for four days with nearly 1,000 lots tagged for the hammer.

ONE DEAD, ONE DYING IN FIGHT WITH COPS

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 4.—Emmet Lane was killed and Harra Willis mortally wounded early tonight by Marshal Ernest Hudlow, of East Ridge, a suburb, when the two men are said to have attacked the officer when he approached a car parked in the roadway to ascertain if it contained liquor.

According to Hudlow, he was driving along the road when he noticed an automobile standing alongside the thoroughfare. He had just reached the parked machine when Lane and Willis came out of the woods, Willis drawing a gun as he advanced. Hudlow informed Willis that he was an officer and asked him why he had the gun, at the same time grabbing it from his hand. The two men then clinched and went to the ground, when Willis called upon Lane to shoot the officer. Lane then emptied his gun at Hudlow, when the officer fired, killing Lane instantly.

Willis continued to fight and the officer shot him through the neck.

$50,000 SLANDER SUIT FILED AGAINST SMALL

Chicago, April 4.—A suit for $50,000 damages for slander was filed in the superior court against Governor Len Small by State Senator James J. Barbour today. Senator Barbour charged that Governor Small slandered him in an address delivered here today.

UNIVERSITY FRESHMEN BATTLE BUTLER'S COPS

Philadelphia, April 4.—Four University of Pennsylvania freshmen were under arrest today as the result of a battle between their classmates and police outside a hotel last night. The freshmen, believing a sophomore banquet to be in progress in the hotel, laid siege to it, police staking up the defense.

Under the glare of the great searchlight just installed on city hall by Director of Public Safety Butler, bricks, canes and police batons were used. Six policemen were injured. Hundreds of cafe patrons watched the fight, which ended in the retreat of the freshmen.

GOULD HEIRS GIVEN HALF OF INHERITANCE

New York, April 4.—The appellate division today ordered that each of the seven children of the late George J. Gould by his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould, should receive for the time being half of $562,571, which Supreme Court Justice Davis recently decided each was entitled to from the George J. Gould trust in the Jay Gould estate.

CONVENTION PLANS DRAWN IN DETAIL

New York, April 4.—Declaring that all preliminary plans for the national democratic convention at Madison Square Garden next June had been worked out in detail, officials in charge announced today that the democratic national committee had been summoned to ahsemble here April 12 and give the plans final approval.

Several changes from the arrangements contemplated when the committee was here in January have been made by George F. Mara, party representative, and Stanley J. Quinn of the local non-partisan conventiou commitee.

For one thing they have agreed with Tex Rickard that it will be impracticable to remodel the garden to seat 18,000 to 20,000 persons, as was planned. Instead, the garden will be equipped to hold 15,000, its intended capacity, and no more.

In partial compensation to those who will be unable to get seats because of this decision arrangements have been made to make Madison Square Park a huge outdoor auditorium which will be served by radio amplifiers.

DAUGHERTY TO HANDLE FIGHT ON VANDERLIP

Washington, April 4.—Former Attorney General Daugherty expects to act as counsel for the owners of The Marion Star in their libel suit against Frank A. Vanderlip, the financier, who recently gave currency to rumors that the late President Harding had sold the paper for more than it was worth.

It is learned that he has been offered the case and is strongly inclined to accept it.

Cops Hold Ex-Head Of Large Concern As Bandit-Slayer

Chicago, April 4.—From the head of a $30,000,000 promotion concern to a robber facing a charge of accessory to murder within a year is the story told by Russell T. Scott, formerly of Cleveland and Toronto, Canada, held in connection with the killing of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, in a store in the heart of the business district Wednesday night.

Scott says at one time he was vice president of the R. T. Scott Company, Ltd., of Toronto, which had branches in a dozen cities and a payroll of 800 names.

He has admitted being a partner of his brother, Robert, in the drug store holdup, which occurred within two blocks of the detective bureau and across from the city hall, while theater crowds walked by, according to the police. He first admitted the shooting, police say, but later declared it was done by his brother.

Arrested with Scott was Helen Bullard, who is held with her brother, Rex Bullard, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine, but police have not disclosed any results of questioning them.

NO PROSECUTION FOR NINA WILCOX IN DIVORCE CASE

Providence, R. I., April 4.—Although her decree of divorce was vacated by Judge Chester W. Barrows, Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, authoress, will not be prosecuted for presenting false affidavits in connection therewith. The grand jury which investigated her case filed a special report today, in which it stated that no indictment had been found.

The case of Fay Eisenberg, wife of a former New York corporation counsel, was also considered, but no indictment returned.

In its report the grand jury says false evidence was undoubtedly presented in these and many other cases heard on depositions, but that it believes misconception of the law's requirements may have been responsible. It recommends, however, that witnesses and lawyers connected with such cases in the future be prosecuted.

PLEA OF NOT GUILTY ENTERED BY LANGLEY

Washington, April 4.—Representative John W. Langley, republican, Kentucky, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned in District of Columbia supreme court today on conspiracy charges in connection with alleged illegal liquor withdrawal permits and asked the court for an early trial.

On request of Langley's counsel the court allowed 20 days in which the defense might enter a demurrer, but the attorneys said they did not expect to take advantage of the privilege.

"We want a trial at the earliest possible moment," Langley said. "We want to go to the mat with them in this case."

Officers Refuse To Arrest Banker Who Admits Fraud

Wichita, Kan., April 4.—The unusual case of a banker who wishes to be arrested for an alleged shortage in his accounts but who cannot be arrested because no one can prove the crime was committed, although government authorities have been working on the case for weeks, is presented by L. P. Weaver, former cashier of the First National bank at Lewis, Kan.

A month ago Weaver confessed to the prosecuting attorney there was a $21,000 shortage in his bank and asked to be punished. He was unable to explain the shortage, save that he had "juggled" the accounts.

After his confession bank examiners closed the bank and went over the books. A few days later, the bank reopened and was pronounced sound by the examiners who said they were unable to find a shortage. Weaver was told by the prosecuting attorney the case was not in his jurisdiction and that if an arrest was made it would have to be made by federal authorities. He then came here while federal court was in session, kept the authorities posted on his movements and awaited the summons of an officer. No summons came.

Weaver was advised to forget the case and get himself a job. Today he started work for a local firm.

Less Taxes, Fewer Laws Is New Body's Slogan; Congress To Hear It

Cleveland, Ohio, April 4.—The lower taxes-less legislation league was launched as a nation-wide organization here today. The membership of the league, which has no partisan political character, includes representatives of farming, business, labor and women united in a movement to impress upon congress and the national political conventions their determination to have relief from their present burden of taxation and a multitude of laws.

DYCHE INSTIGATED DRUG PROBE, CHARGE

defied a mob at Carrollton, Ga., and prevented the lynching of a negro. He was appointed to a prison position by Roosevelt as a recognition of his act.

Says He Aided in Probe.

According to Fletcher, he assisted Dyche in every way possible in conducting the drug investigation, although he openly disagreed with the methods pursued by Dyche in securing evidence, he said.

The department of justice agents sent here by William J. Burns, head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, were men who had served formerly as members of the Burns private bureau, and were once members of the underworld, Fletcher said he had been told. This information also was secured at the federal building.

Agents who participated in the probe were "Izzy" Katz, a man known as Goldy and another man named Davis.

According to Fletcher, these men conducted as under-cover investigation which lasted for nearly two months before their work became known to the local office of the department of justice.

Votaw's Position.

Deputy Warden Fletcher did not question the wisdom of Heber H. Votaw in haling the investigation. Votaw came to Atlanta and found that the probe was tending to demoralize the prison and its inmates, and undertook to quell the "stir" which had been created and to carry on the probe quietly. He said that Votaw appeared anxious to convict every guilty man, but did not approve of the methods being used by Dyche and Burns men.

Dyche aspired to be popular among the prisoners, and this attitude of the warden tended to slack discipline, the deputy warden said. On one occasion Dyche told a group of more than 100 prisoners assembled at the prison farm that he had much rather have their endorsement than the endorsement of the prison guards, he said.

It was recalled that when the drug probe reached its heighth and the district attorney's office was called into it, about 20 prisoners, including Jake Lubin, who is now serving a 12-year sentence here, and other equally notorious inmates, were taken from time to time from the prison to the federal building, and that on one occasion Warden Dyche accompanied them to the district attorney's office and was lavish in gifts of sandwiches, cigars, cigarettes and candy to the prisoners as they sat in an anteroom awaiting their turn in the grilling-room.

He lost no opportunity to tell the prisoners to present their complaints to him, the result being, it is said, that prisoners flocked to the warden's office to report alleged shortcomings of guards and other civilian employees.

An espionage system among the prisoners, whereby Dyche undertook to secure whatever information he desired, was created as a result of his policy of intimacy with the inmates, it is said. He frequently gave instructions to prisoners to secure information on different matters, particularly with reference to conduct of his staff men, it was declared.

Only One Conviction.

When Votaw came to Atlanta in the midst of the drug probe he induced District Attorney Clint W. Hager to bring some of the cases to trial before proceeding with further indictments, the result being that of the four narcotic cases made, one man entered a plea of guilty and the other three were not convicted.

Dr. H. C. Carrick, former assistant physician at the prison, and himself a prisoner, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing drugs from the prison hospital and selling them to certain prisoners. He was sentenced to Leavenworth for four years. It was charged later, during the trial of John Owens, that Carrick had been made assistant physician by Dyche over the objection of Fletcher, who regarded the prisoner as unfit for the place.

John Owens, a guard, was tried in October, 1922, on a charge of selling drugs to prisoners, and the case ended in a mistrial. In January, 1923, following a trial which lasted for eight days, he was liberated after the jury had considered the evidence for eight minutes. Another guard was acquitted in 12 minutes' time, and a similar case against Guard Massey was nol prossed, the government admitting its failure to obtain sufficient evidence.

Cases Nol Prossed.

Meanwhile indictments charging three other prison officials with serious statutory offenses had been returned, but these were nol prossed later. Thus, out of seven indictments, the only case successfully terminated by the prosecution was that of Dr. Carrick, who plead guilty.

Dyche was well known to the business men of Atlanta. On several occasions he addressed large civic gatherings, such as the weekly club luncheons, and his message was always well received. When A. E. Sartain, of Columbus, Ohio, came here to supplant him, it was announced that Dyche had requested that he be relieved of the duties of warden and appointed to the federal prohibition directorship of Oklahoma, in order that he might return to his home. Later it was reported that his resignation had been requested by the department of justice.

DOPE RINGS WORK IN FEDERAL PENS

census while he was warden that showed that 600 men were engaged in the dope traffic and that about 100 became drug addicts after they were confined in the prison. He said there were four men indicted as a result of the Burns investigation and there should have been eight or ten.

Describing the reason he left the position at Atlanta, Dyche said that the inspector of prisons called on him at Atlanta when he was warden and asked him to "step out" as Attorney General Daugherty was "in a jam." He was relieved as warden, he said, and then obtained an appointment as a prohibition agent.

Asked for Probe.

Dyche testified that he learned the drug traffic was going on at the penitentiary soon after he took office. The dope was smuggled into the prison in various ways, he said.

"There were trusties who came and went," he said, describing the methods. "Then some dope may have come in through the mails. Some came in in food and things sent from prisoners' homes."

Asked what he did when he found that narcotics were being sold in the prison, Dyche said that he "began urging Mr. Votaw, superintendent of prisons, to make an investigation of the narcotic situation with a view of prosecuting somebody."

Four Guards Indicted.

He said that Burns sent three men down, and a net was thrown about the prison, and all mail carefully watched to prevent drugs coming in. He stated that it was a year after he had asked for help from Votaw, however, before these special agents were sent down.

Four guards, he said, were indicted on dope charges, and two other men who he had heard were engaged in the dope traffic resigned after he had talked with them about the rumors that were going about the prison. Two of the guards indicted were acquitted, and two were dismissed, Dyche said.

He was asked if the traffic in dope stopped with indictments of the guards.

Traffic Still Going On.

"It did not," Dyche answered, "and it is going on there today."

"Did Mr. Votaw advance any reasons why this investigation should cease?" Dyche was asked.

"His objections were to the publicity attached to the investigation," Dyche replied. He said the prisoners had read the publicity, but it had not disrupted the discipline. Half of the guard force were opposed to the investigation, Dyche stated.

He said that prisoners who were about to testify in the dope investigation were discriminated against by the guards and by Deputy Warden Fletcher. Dyche said Fletcher did not oppose the investigation, but Votaw said it should be discontinued until after indictments were returned. The former warden declared that he had urged the continuation of the investigation even to Attorney General Daugherty. He said that Daugherty was "weary of the publicity," but had no intention of covering it up.

Amazed at Votaw.

"I was amazed at Mr. Votaw's attitude," Dyche said. "He was a minister of the gospel of God and a brother-in-law of the president and I was dumbfounded when he wanted the investigation stopped."

Dyche said that the first person who was caught after the investigation started was the first prison physician, who had once been a prisoner. He plead guilty, Dyche stated, and is now in Leavenworth prison.

"Mr. Burns' attitude on this investigation was as fine as it could be and if the investigation had not been stopped, I believe he could have stopped this dope business," Dyche declared.

The former warden said that the dope traffic is still going on at the Atlanta penitentiary and that "it's worse at Leavenworth than at Atlanta."

Conference With Daugherty.

Dyche described a conference here with Daugherty, at which Fletcher, Votaw, and Mayor Key, of Atlanta, were present, besides himself. The conference lasted about an hour, he said, and Votaw talked about his publicity, "which he said would ruin the penitentiary." Votaw objected, Dyche said, on the ground that publicity of the dope traffic would disrupt discipline at the prison. The conference amounted to nothing, the former warden stated.

He then told of another conference with Daugherty two months after the first, when the attorney general told him there was a lack of harmony between himself (Dyche) and the deputy warden, and that it had to be straightened out. This friction all arose over the dope situation, Dyche declared.

Cites Dyke Case.

Going into pardon cases, Dyche told of the "Dyke" case. "Dyke," he said, was an assumed name, and the man was no relation of his. He had heard rumors, he said, that Dyke had paid $5,000 for his parole. An Italian friend of Dyke's had sat with the board when Dyke's pardon was considered, though no outsiders, he said, are allowed at these meetings.

Senator Wheeler then inserted a photostatic copy of a letter into the record from Charles Vincenti, of Baltimore, to Elias H. Mortimer, setting forth an agreement by which Vincenti was to pay Mortimer $50,000 for a pardon. The letter was signed by E. H. Mortimer on August 13, 1921. Mortimer's wife, who was in the room, stepped up and under oath identified the signature as that of her husband.

Dyche said he had talked with Vincenti, and told him that he'd better stop using money. Vincenti, he said, had served his sentence and was released, and he did not know what happened in the Dyke case, although he said a recommendation for parole was made in his case.

KEY DENIES PARLEY WITH DAUGHERTY.

Concerning the conference mentioned by J. E. Dyche, former Mayor Key stated Friday night that he failed to recollect any such conference. "The conference might have been held," he stated, "but if it was, I have forgotten it, and I think that I would be likely to remember any such meeting." He stated that he knew Dyche only casually, having met him when the former warden appeared before a committee of council regarding some water pipes at a time when Mr. Key was in office. "I am sure that I never met Mr. Votaw," the ex-mayor said, "and I do not remember ever having met Fletcher."

MOTHER AND BABY BOTH BENEFITED BY TANLAC

"Tanlac Has Done Me World's Of Good And Has Greatly Helped My Baby, Too"—Says Mrs. Long.

"Tanlac has done me a world of good, and in so doing has greatly helped my baby, too," says Mrs. J. S. Long, 106 Main Street, Exposition Mills, Atlanta, Ga.

"Last spring when I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown my baby girl, not quite a year old then, was not doing at all well either. Both the baby and myself were nervous and restless at night, and during the day I would have dizzy headaches.

"But four bottles of Tanlac brought back my appetite, made my food more nourishing, strengthened my nerves, built up my entire system, and all the time I have been using the treatment I can also see the biggest sort of difference in baby. Instead of being fretful now she sleeps the whole night through and wakes up smiling. I am taking another bottle of Tanlac now."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.—(adv.)

ANOTHER COOPERATIVE.

The Georgia Sweet Potato Growers' association is now being organized to cooperatively standardize, grade, pack and market a product that ought to be one of the chief resources of farm revenue coming into this state.

Georgia grows about one-seventh of the total sweet potato production of the United States. In 1922 the recorded production amounted to 12,400,000 bushels. In the northern and eastern markets the Georgia yam brought then, and brings now, from $2.50 to $4.00 a bushel, the wide range being due to the unsystematic method of distribution. This would mean, should markets be found for the gross production, an income gross of from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 from this one product. Everybody knows, however, that the Georgia farmer received from 50 cents to $1 a bushel only, the differential being absorbed through the lack of an up-to-date merchantable system of disposing of the potatoes.

With known and tested methods for curing sweet potatoes, and with the growing demand throughout the world for them as a food, there is no doubt that a properly organized and managed cooperative marketing association will do much toward stabilizing this food crop in which Georgia excels in quality and quantity production. The sweet potato should be as staple as the white potato.

It is well known that the sweet potato can be successfully grown in Georgia as a second crop, the transplanting of "slips" to follow the maturity and harvesting of some of the earlier crops.

The history of marketing the California raisin is familiar to most people. The cooperative system has made this one of the great wealth-producing crops of the Pacific coast state.

The same thing can be done for the Georgia yam, and it should be.

The association being formed has its headquarters in Valdosta. W. F. Arnold is president and J. K. Simmons organization manager. The application has been made for charter, and the membership campaign will shortly begin. It should succeed, and no doubt it will.

The sweet potato can be made very profitable, but only through systematic grading, curing and marketing as the markets will absorb.

GROUP RULE WRONG.

The reestablishment of the homeseekers' rates from the west into the southeast is most gratifying, as the rate for an adult has been fixed at one fare for both ways plus $2.

For the real, concrete purpose in mind, however, the rule of the railroads that confines the rates only to group movements of five or more is not only unsatisfactory but of little real benefit.

The farmer, for instance, who lives at some rural station in Ohio or Illinois, or the Dakotas, or any other state, who desires to visit a definite point in Georgia to inspect a definite proposal before him, is not enabled to organize an excursion party of five, as in all probability no other person in his community is interested in the proposed trip to this specific point in Georgia, or any other point. The farmer who is interested, therefore, finds that the special homeseekers' rates sound well, but so far as he is concerned they don't mean anything.

That provision is entirely wrong, and is destined to defeat the ends sought. Southern railroads are necessarily interested vitally in attracting homeseekers into the south. The greater volume of business, passenger and freight follows the greater industrial and agricultural development of the country. Railroads employ agricultural experts and extension and field men to help develop the agricultural interests along their lines.

This being true, it is difficult to understand why a shortsighted policy as to homeseekers' rates shall be adopted. There will be 10 to come under an unrestricted rule where one will come under a group-movement rule. The volume of business will be greater, and the real success of farm land selling, following the homeseekers' rates, will be more pronounced and outstanding.

WHILE GEORGIA LAGS.

It is officially announced that forty or fifty engineers and officials from South American countries will visit the United States in May and June to study highway building in the progressive states where the highway programs have become internationally known.

Naturally enough the state of North Carolina is the main objective, and the highway department of that state now proposes a demonstration of far-reaching interest and importance.

The visitors will be the guests of the Pan-American union and the United States Highway Educational board. The North Carolina highway department has worked out a plan by which the American Road Builders' association will hold a road building demonstration in that state from June 4 to 10 in connection with the state association. At that time the visitors will be present, and will be given practical illustrations of the influence on other interests.

Speaking of this the Manufacturers Record, devoted to the business and industrial interests of every state in the south and southwest, without favoritism, makes bold to say:

"It is a fair assumption, we believe, that considered from all angles North Carolina is today the most prosperous state in the union, making relatively greater agricultural, industrial and educational progress than any other state. This has largely come about by the superb work which has been done in the building of highways on a scale not equalled relatively by any other commonwealth."

It is not difficult to find evidence sufficient to sustain Editor Edmonds in this appraisement of North Carolina, and by common consent the remarkable highway development in that state is given credit for being the foundation upon which this marvelous prosperity has been built.

The people of a state who show the progressive spirit that North Carolinans have shown in highway construction, are necessarily progressive in all forward-looking lines. It would be incongruous for a man to be progressive in highway development and unprogressive in educational or industrial or even social development. Unflinching and undaunted constructiveness has merely fastened itself into the popular thought of North Carolina, and the phenomenal progress of the state in all respects is the answer.

And why not Georgia?

The people are of the same stock. The climatic and soil conditions are practically the same with a differential in favor of Georgia if anything. Then why not?

North Carolina used to be far more backward in road and educational and industrial development than Georgia today. Then that state was surfeited with petty, factional politics. Like weeds in the cotton patch the state's political system kept progress down.

Then there was an aroused public conscience. Men of affairs made the sacrifice of time and went to the legislature in the interest of the public welfare. Political factionalism was largely supplanted by cooperative progressiveism. And then North Carolina began to move ahead by leaps and bounds.

That lesson must be learned in Georgia. This state will never attain the place that every endowment of nature entitles her to have, until business men, who hold the state's interest paramount to personal political fortunes, shall offer for the legislature, wipe out the annual session and the two-year term, and have the courage to dare and to do.

The Singer and the Song.

I found, this morning, a katydid,
Dead on a lump of coal;
The poor little thing
Had tried to sing;
But the frost had crumpled its fragile wing
And carried away its soul.

And, now, I wonder if frosty coal
Knows of the deathless tune
Of the little thing
That tried to sing
While the frost was crumpling its fragile wing
Under heartless moon.

Somehow, I feel it, that hearts as hard—
Harder than any stone—
Will glow with a light
And a warmth more bright,
For the slender song that was heard in the night,
After the singer has gone.

13 CONTRACTS LET FOR PAVING WORK

Contracts for 13 new street paving projects were awarded by the street committee of council at a meeting Friday afternoon in an atmosphere unusually grave.

Two members, Chairman C. D. Knight and Councilman Harry York, were welcomed cordially back to their accustomed seats after extended absences because of illness, Mr. York coming to the meeting on crutches, Mr. Knight limping with a cane.

One member failed for the first time to answer to his name. His associates on the committee had just come back from West View cemetery where they had paid final tribute to Councilman Arthur Dyer.

Street Awards.

The street awards were:

Atlanta avenue, Boulevard to Confederate, to Case and Cothran for extra-vibrolithic concrete at $2.45 per square yard.

Fern, from Haygood to Vanira, to MacDougald for the same material at $2.48.

Cherokee, from Atlanta to Robinson, to MacDougald for the same.

Washita, Sinclair to Euclid, to Davis for the same material at $2.38 per yard.

Highland, from Boulevard to Harris, to Finley for Willite at $1.74 per yard.

Houston, from Boulevard to Randolph, to Meador for extra-vibrolithic concrete at $2.44.

The Biggest Contract.

Jackson, from Edgewood to Forrest, the largest contract of the lot, to Finley for Willite at $2.27.

Elixir, Wellington to Johnson, to Jamison and Hollowell for extra-vibrolithic concrete at $2.44.

Hilliard, from Forrest avenue to Currier, to Brittain for the same material at $2.57.

Mill, from Luckie to Williams, to MacDougald for Willite at $2.25 and $2.65, depending on the condition of the present foundation.

Courtland, from Edgewood to Gilmer, to be paved by the city.

Ivy place, from McLendon to Connecticutt, to Davis for concrete at $2.58.

Shelton, from Murphy to Stewart, to Meador for concrete at $2.47.

Laurel, from Gordon to Mozley, to Jamison & Hollowell for concrete at $2.44.

Crew street, Georgia avenue to Weyman, to MacDougald for concrete at $2.50.

On motion of Councilman J. A. Beall, Chief of Construction Hasnell was authorized to advertise for bids to move back the retaining wall at Pryor street school, which is to be done within the next 30 days.

Councilman Bob Pennington, of the First ward, was authorized to review prices for the land for the Madison avenue extension right of way, options for which have been secured by J. L. McCord.

A Word from Dr. Traprock.

Our old friend, Dr. Walter E. Traprock, is just back from a trip through the Desert of Sahara.

In a recent conversation the famous explorer said: "The most interesting discovery I made on the entire trip was that of a new—I should say—of a very old tribe of Nomads living south of the Ahaggar plateau.

"These people whom I have called the Bishtilli, or sand-blowers, live entirely on sand. It is the only article of their diet. They require no water whatsoever. Countless years in the desert have brought this strange thing about. This diet has naturally affected their appearance.

"Hair, complexion, eyes, even teeth are sandy, so that at a distance of a few feet a Bishtilli is invisible against the desert background. The sand-blowing habit is unique. Unlike the Carolina clay-eater, the Bishtilli does not digest the sand but retains it only after the nutritive elements have been absorbed, after which the sand is blown out in a perfect ring.

"Their mouths are very large and elastic, and are perfectly adapted to blowing these rings for an immense distance and with great accuracy.

"Withal they are a friendly people and have a very dry sense of humor."

We would hazard the opinion that the Doc has also.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

* * * *

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Faith Like A Mustard Seed.

Faith in prayer has recovered a stolen automobile. Rev. F. Williamson, a Baptist pastor of Wilmington, Del., startled his congregation at the weekly prayer meeting Wednesday night by praying for the recovery of his car and salvation of the thief's soul. Police of a neighboring village reported the car recovered just after close of the prayer meeting. The writer's grandfather had a neighbor who also had an invincible faith in the power of prayer. As the neighbor was a miller in a small Zeeland-Flanders village he was excessively troubled by mice. He refused to set traps for the vermin, however, saying that he had no right to kill any of the Lord's creatures. He prayed, however, that the mice should leave the mill. Reporting the incident to grandfather, he said that his prayer had been answered. "But where have the mice gone?" grandfather asked. "I hear," answered the miller, "that they have migrated in a body to the baker's warehouse, where there are new stocks of wheat and corn."

Inhuman Treatment Of Greeks.

Queen Marie of Rumania is planning to come to the United States for a long visit this year. She has an ambition to go to Hollywood and star in some royalty play, which is to be staged as benefit performance for Rumanian orphans. That would be a fine thing for the Balkans. Queen Marie, when she is not hunting husbands for her marriageable daughters, is engaged in deep plots of international intrigue. In return for the dethroning of her son-in-law, King George of Greece, she has persuaded the Rumanian government to expel 100,000 Greek people who happen to live on Rumanian soil. Now that may be a splendid revenge and a brilliant coup on the part of the queen, but to the Greek settlers and merchants it is nothing less than tragedy. They must leave behind their villages and homes and go to a land crowded with refugees. Such inhuman treatment comes ill from a woman who prates of charity for orphans.

Tannenberg.

Ludendorff, our old friend of the Hindenburg line, snarls and scowls as he is freed by a court-martial in Munich. He rattles his saber and says that the great soldiers of the fatherland were not sent to prison in days gone by, but entered Valhalla, where they drink beer out of the skulls of their enemies. The marshal described himself as the victor of Tannenberg. Indeed that was a great slaughter. Six hundred thousand Russian moujiks were maneuvered into the marshes of the Masurian lakes. But the fate of that battle was decided before it started through the corrupt buying of Russian generals. Trotsky and Lenin by opening the secret archives of Moscow have at least done history the favor of becoming acquainted with that shameful campaign. Marshal Ludendorff is indeed a great victor. And a typical product of imperial Prussian psychology.

Beyond Calvary The Resurrection.

As the Christian world approaches Holy week the cathedrals and churches are shrouded in gloom. Religious thought reverts to the sufferings of the Founder of Christianity, His last words of overflowing sorrow and pathos to His desciples and the cruel persecution of His enemies. In the natural world there is a mysterious stir. Buds are swelling and blossoms are showing their first delicate hues. The darkness of winter has past. The bare ground is covered with first sprouts of tenderest green. From the south blows a wind that has growing power. Resurrection lies just beyond.

Blood Thicker Than Water.

"No negligence in our naval defense," so speaks Tokutomi, editor of the Japanese paper Kokumin. He predicts a war in the Pacific and warns his people to be ready. Mr. Tokutomi ought to look ahead. His country is doing comparatively well. It gained a few magnificent colonies in the great war from an enemy who could not defend himself in the far east. Let not madness seize the Japanese people as a result of such like jingoistic propaganda. In the event of war with the United States she may surprise this country with a few bold strokes. But there are unlimited resources here. She may catch this country unawares as she did Russia. But beyond the initial victories there would be nothing but defeat, and overwhelming defeat at that. Across the ocean sits John Bull, who would not allow Anglo-Saxon blood relations to even approach disaster. The Japanese are a great people. They ought not to listen to Mr. Tokutomi.

Settling the Waste Spaces.

Heavy immigration, far in excess of the last three years, is bound for Canada. Government agents in Antwerp, Libau, Hamburg, Liverpool, Riga, Glasgow and Cherbourg are checking over the men and women who want to move to the dominion. That is the right system. Undesirables are turned away as the port of embarkation. Canada prefers British settlers and is getting them in large numbers. Scottish and Welsh miners, Yorkshire stock breeders and Devonshire truck farmers. Premier MacKenzie King says: "People create wealth." He is right. The government is settling the newcomers along the open spaces on the trans-continental. Over fifty new towns and villages have sprung up during the last two or three years on that section of the Canadian national railways, which lies between Quebec city and Cochrane in north Ontario.

Balkan Ways.

Dr. Alexander Devine, of Winchester, England, author of several books on Montenegro, sends a photograph of a horrible scene in that country. Twelve dead men, Montenegrins, lie in the snow, surrounded by a company of Serbian soldiers. He calls the picture "The Pacification of Montenegro by Serbia." Montenegro united with Serbia after the great war. It seems that this move was against the will of the people, however. But the people could do little against Serbian bayonets and machine guns. Self-determination for small peoples was wildly acclaimed by the Serbs, but they did not think it applied to such "cattle" as the Montenegrins. "Freedom, what crimes are permitted in thy name!"

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Any reader may obtain a personal reply to any answerable question of fact or information by writing to Washington Bureau, Atlanta Constitution, 1322 New York avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., enclosing 2 cents in stamps. Legal, medical and marital advice can not be given, nor can extended research be undertaken. Unsigned letters can not be answered. All letters are confidential.

Is electricity used for the generation of steam?

Electricity is used where small quantities of steam are needed, and where it is the most convenient source of heat. It is a very wasteful system, only 20 per cent of the original energy in the fuel being put into the steam, as against 50 to 90 per cent with a coal or oil boiler. When hydro-electric power is generated as a by-product of irrigation, electricity may be used in this manner. It is also used to supply steam for operating pumps, radiators, etc., in idle reserve steam plants connected to hydroelectric plants.

How many Greeks and Italians (not naturalized) registered for Class 1 of the selective draft during the war?

Greeks, 22,090; Italians, 104,358.

What is boiled linseed oil?

Oil obtained by boiling raw linseed oil with litharge, sugar of lead or some other substance, the result being a dark oil that dries quickly.

How is salt made?

It is not "made." To the chemists, it is sodium chloride. The chief sources of salt are sea water, rock salt deposits and brines. Most of that produced in the United States is obtained from brines by evaporation.

Which is the fastest running dog?

The whippet.

Where are penguins to be found?

On Antarctic islands, south of South Africa and South America mostly.

Where is Buffalo Bill buried?

The body of W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) is buried on Mt. Lookout, just outside of Denver, Col.

Who was the oldest president and who was the youngest ever elected?

W. H. Harrison was the oldest; Roosevelt was the youngest.

What is silicate?

A salt of silicic acid. Silicates formed by the union of silicic acid with bases alumina, lime, magnesia, potassa, soda, etc., constitute by far the greater number of the minerals which compose the crust of the globe. Glass is a mixture of artificial silicates of alkalis and alkaline earths or metallic oxides.

Was Napoleon a Frenchman or an Italian?

Napoleon was born on the Island of Corsica in 1769. This island had been ceded to France by Genoa in 1768. The name Bonaparte is of Tuscan origin, while Napoleon's mother was of Florentine descent. Racially, therefore, he was of Italian descent, though born in a French possession.

How many presidents were in the senate before they were elected president?

Monroe, Johnson, Garfield, John Quincy Adams, Pierce, Buchanan, Van Buren, Tyler and Harding. Andrew Johnson was elected senator from Tennessee after his term as president ended.

Can rubies be made artificially?

Yes, synthetic or artificial rubies are made by fusing pure aluminum oxide with a small amount of oxide of chromium. These synthetic rubies, which are practically indistinguishable from the natural gems, are being put on the market gradually, their great beauty and relative inexpensiveness having caused a growing demand for them.

What animals kill trees by eating off the bark?

The mammals which kill trees by girdling them are the meadow mouse and the cottontail rabbit. The beaver gnaws around and around until the tree falls.

What are Hudson seal furs really made from; also electric seal and French coney?

Hudson seal is made from dyed muskrat; the domesticated rabbit skins when clipped and dyed are sold as electric seal, and in their natural form or unclipped and dyed, they are sold as French coney.

HEALTH TALKS
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

FLEXIBLE COLLODION.

Flexible collodion is a solution of gun-cotton in alcohol and ether, with a little Canada turpentine and castor oil. When painted upon the skin the volatile liquids evporate, leaving a transparent film. The collodion serves the purpose of an impervious dressing for small wounds or abrasions. It may be made more elastic by adding about five drops of glycerin to the ounce of flexible collodion. It may be tinted to resemble the skin by adding a drop or two of saffron or tumeric to the ounce.

The surface must be perfectly dry for collodion to adhere; so it cannot be applied when there is bleeding, oozing of moisture from the wound, but for most minor cuts and abrasions it is the ideal dressing to use immediately after the primary disinfection with tincture of iodin. One or several coats may be applied, allowing each to dry well. Sometimes the film may be reinforced with thin wisps of absorbent cotton or a single layer of gauze to form a sturdier protective dressing.

Cracks in the lips, so difficult to heal, should be painted with iodin and then the outer ends drawn together and sealed with a little flexible collodion.

Ragged or torn borders of skin about the nails, which are often a source of infection, and "run-arounds" should be swabbed with iodin and covered with a smooth collodion film.

Small scalp wounds may be held together by collodion as well as by stitching if the bleeding can be stopped. Surgeons often use a collodion film as the sole dressing of a small operative wound.

Flexible collodion is the kind to use—not plain collodion, which is too brittle. Collodion must be kept very tightly corked, and the cork or stopper and the inside of the neck of the vial kept free from it, for the ether evaporates quickly and leaves a thick mass—which may be again dissolved in ether. It is best to use a freshly sterilized camel's hair brush or a bit of cotton on the end of a toothpick to reach into the bottle without smearing the insides of the bottle neck.

Thirty grains of salicylic acid dissolved in half an ounce of flexible collodion constitutes the famous "corn cure," which when painted on the corn or callous once a day for a week or more will cause softening so that the corn or callous comes away. This same "corn cure" is nearly as effective for simple warts as it is for corns. It is a good plan to put a drop of tincture of iodin on corn or wart just once before beginning the use of the salicylated collodion. The formula for this "corn cure," by the way, is more or less standard.

The next item in The Medicine Cupboard, I see, is alum. That will naturally call for a little of my favorite product, sarcasm. Before we turn on the cutting stream—and if my sarcasm has ever hurt an intelligent creature I'd be both grateful and repentant to hear how—this seems an appropriate place to break in upon our purely medicinal lessons with a few practical ideas on the intelligent management of minor wounds and sores, or, as I promised earlier in this course on The Medicine Cupboard, some brief pointers on how not to handle wounds and dressings in home care or first aid. So be sure to tune in and get this important instruction in the next lesson.

FAMOUS 'HORSE GUARD' NOW PERMANENT ORDER

Reorganization of the famous "Governor's Horse Guard" into a permanent organization was completed Friday night by more than 30 members who met at the Kimball house. C. W. Kimball was elected president of the new organization and S. E. Berry secretary and treasurer.

The unit, which served on the Mexican border during the trouble with Mexico in 1916, and also saw service overseas during the World war, was known at that time as the L. troop of the second squadron of Georgia cavalry.

The meeting was held not only to reorganize the unit, but also served as first reunion held since the World war.

Charter members of the permanent order include D. O. Arnsted, M. Alexander, H. C. Ashford, J. R. Bates, S. E. Berry, W. B. Carson, J. L. Courtney, G. M. Camp, J. B. Cowan, O. J. Dooley, B. W. Davis, J. T. Davis, G. F. Gasser, Milt Goodrich, M. Goldstein, Theo Goolsby, I. W. Green, C. W. Kimball, J. C. Liddle, P. C. Maddox, M. F. Mobley, J. M. McCollum, B. W. Owens, R. J. Summers, J. P. Swann, B. S. Sherman, J. B. Simmins, Jr., Cecil Taylor, P. A. Tucker, Garrett Ware, L. H. Williams and W. C. Howell.

BANDITS ROB BANK, KILL SPECTATOR AND MAKE ESCAPE

Bellemore, N. Y., April 4.—A group of armed bandits today held up the First National bank, shot and killed Ernest L. Whitman, a bond salesman who happened to be in the bank, and escaped with $6,000 in a motor car from which they fired a fusillade of shots at pursuers.

Just In Passing
BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

The rumpus kicked up in Georgia by the two or three "McAdoo leaders" who arrogated unto themselves in an Atlanta conference the abolition of all county lines and rights, and appointed delegates and alternates to the state presidential convention for every county in the state without consultation or conference with, or otherwise the sanctioning of, the respective county democratic committees, or either the respective county McAdoo leaders, is growing in fury as the days pass and the real, unmistakable significance of the thing more deeply sinks in.

The destruction of the system of county autonomy goes hand-in-hand with the destruction of democracy, for democracy means local self-government as well as representative government—"a government of and by and for the people."

When one man, or two men, or a secret cabal thus abrogate the fundamentals of democracy—rule or no rule—then the ship of state, under our system of free institutions, begins to drift dangerously near to the rocks.

The real facts are just beginning to dawn upon the people as to the manner and method of the appointments of delegates to the presidential convention, and delegates, themselves, the McAdoo leaders in various sections of the state, are those who are most in revolt at what Colonel McIntosh of Albany—a delegate—has declared to be "high-handed and brazen."

Just where the storm is going to touch next, and just when it is going to abate, are eventualities of the future.

Certain it is the people of Georgia are determined that county rights shall not again be abrogated by any one or two men or cabal in this state, and D. C. Barrow, of Chatham, expressed the view of thousands when he said the people of Georgia will not again trust, or join in convention, the men who are responsible for this thing.

* * * *

Editor Bowdre Phinizy, of The Augusta Herald, who is also publisher of The Athens Banner-Herald, has joined many other leading editors of the state who favored Mr. McAdoo in denouncing the Atlanta star-chamber proceeding.

"Let the people rule" is the very emphatic title of his editorial, and following are some of the pertinent extracts—

"The storm of protest and indignation that is gathering in Georgia on the action of the state democratic executive committee in denying the minority counties representatives at the convention on April 23rd has only begun. Such a convention can only be a farce. Why a convention, if its action is already determined?"

"Why a convention," is a pertinent question.

Why drag a couple thousand county "delegates" and "alternates," named in a secret caucus of two or three men in Atlanta, to Atlanta on April 23rd, to have no voice of their own, no entity, no anything except to place a composite rubber stamp upon a list of delegates-at-large and district delegates, already secretly chosen, for the New York convention?

Editor Phinizy goes on to say:

"It is argued that the rule was adopted prior to the primary, but it makes no difference when it was adopted, it has not a semblance of the democratic principle and it is, therefore, of no force. It might go in a Russian despotism, but in free America, where popular government and representative government is supposed to exist it has no place. The fact that there are 19 counties that will have no voice in the so-called convention and more than 50,000 Georgians that will be deprived of the right of representation which is guaranteed by the constitution of our country, seems to have received not the slightest particle of attention.

"Baldwin county is where McAdoo is supposed to have had his strongest claim to being a Georgian, and Baldwin repudiated McAdoo decisively at the ballot box, yet Baldwin will have no opportunity to be heard in the so-called convention under the so-called rule. According to this, the democratic minority in congress since the republicans went into power would have no more voice in the government than a bump on a log.

"Nor do the high-handed proceedings of the McAdoo contingent end here. At a meeting of the McAdoo managers, delegates were appointed from every county in the state before the result had been officially announced. In Chatham some of the leading men of the county were appointed McAdoo delegates, but, nonetheless, these are to be ignored and only the hand-picked kind which the heads of the cabal appointed will be admitted."

The reference of the editor of the Herald to Baldwin county naturally brings to mind the fact that Miller Bell, who was the state campaign manager for Mr. McAdoo, is a resident of that county, although he lost it by nearly two to one.

It has been and is being generally alleged that Mr. Bell was "one of" the cabal that named the delegates from every county in the state without regard to the democratic principle of county autonomy. Hollins N. Randolph, of Atlanta, is accredited with being the "steerer" of the plan.

* * * *

"Uncle Joe" Shannon, one of the soundest and coolest heads in the weekly press of Georgia, says in his Commerce News, that the whole delegate-appointing proceeding is "illegal" under the very rules that are supposed to have been the "authority" for the work of the cabal. Quoting him—

"In their haste to honor—or dishonor, as the case may be—their friends, it seems the McAdoo managers have gone awry—for a few trampled the rules of the state committee under foot, took the bit in their own mouths, and played the fool generally." Under the rules governing the election, no delegate can be named until after the 12th of April, when the committee declares the result of the primary. All appointments made are illegal and a contest on the floor when the convention meets seems inevitable."

Editor Shope, of The Dalton Citizen, is another member of the weekly press that has spoken out without mincing words, under the editorial title "A Pretty Kettle of Fish." He says, among other things—

"All is not quiet and serene in the McAdoo camp in Georgia. The Atlanta tail of the machine is trying to wag the state, and so far seems to be succeeding very admirably.

"And it is serious for Mr. McAdoo. It is a regular bone-head play that is bound to do his cause much harm."

That the proceeding is most serious for Mr. McAdoo, is the opinion of many of the cool, calculating friends of Mr. McAdoo in the state who believe that any game should be played on the top of the table.

Ex-Minister P. A. Stovall, of Savannah, one of the strongest of the McAdoo supporters, has said in The Savannah Press that Mr. McAdoo's cause has been hurt "in the house of his friends."

* * * *

Anyway, the storm is just beginning to rage. The personnel of the delegations "appointed" is not the issue in the slightest degree—

The issue is democracy—the autonomy of the county as a unit in Georgia's scheme of government.

Shall county authorities be ignored and subverted to the dictation of one man, or a cabal in Atlanta?

Shall czardom rule in Georgia?

These are questions that will never down until the rights of the people, even in the appointment of delegates to a state convention, shall have been restored to the people.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE
BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, April 4.—The middle-aged women who flock to the afternoon tea dansants with swaggering young escorts are interesting studies. They have a regal, glacial manner despite the commonness of their flirty peccadillos.

Most of them are obviously rich and they have the disillusioned gaze of those to whom all things are vanity. Their gowns are from the finest shops. The tell-tale marks of long siege with the beauty parlors are noticeable.

They appear tremendously bored with the prattle of the sleek young Berties who sit across from them. These are the pinky-panned young men who are always one of the metropolitan mysteries. They live in hall bedrooms but they appear well-to-do.

They play a good game of tennis or golf, dress in the latest fashion and yet they never work. Even the women who tolerate them to fritter away an hour or so tedium would never think of inviting them to their homes.

There is no effort not to be seen by friends. The women have the varnished perfection and the untouchable independence of the rich—and what others think has no effect. In their own set, at least, they are held blameless.

Mostly their marriages have been those of endurance. Only money made them tolerable. Their husbands leave their downtown offices and go to the club for bridge and the Scotch and soda. They are as likely as not to live at the club for a week without going home.

So the wives, perhaps tired of the tediousness of social gadding, seek companionship of the frivolous young men who exchange their companionship for the privilege of not paying the check.

The tea table Bertie is the last word in etiquette. They tell of one who, when he was a private at Camp Mills, asked to fall out of drill because he had a trade last for the colonel.

Fashioning what Broadway knows as the "wise crack" sometimes brings rich rewards. Ralph Spence, most adroit of the young men who contribute lines to musical comedies and captions for funny films, is said to have an income of $100,000 a year. Spence was a rather indifferent advertising man on a Texas newspaper. He came to New York and furnished several smart gags to a musical revue. A film concern also retained him and now he has a suite of offices, a country home and rides about in limousines.

Speaking of "wise cracks," In a cafe the other day a patron sent a waiter for some lumps of sugar for his coffee. The coffee cooled during his absence. When the waiter returned the patron inquired: "How did you enjoy your trip to Europe?"

In the neighborhood of the Winter Garden are many apartment-houses occupied almost exclusively by chorus girls. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon they come tripping out for breakfast. The curbs are lined with young men in raccoon coats who have their roadsters waiting to accompany them to the first meal of the day. In one of the apartment houses there are 116 occupants and all are connected in some capacity or other with the stage.

One of the signs in a chorus girl apartment house lobby reads: "Tenants who arrive home after 4 a. m. are requested not to laugh in the halls."

GEORGIA WOMAN IN HOSPITAL FIRE DIES OF BURNS

Morganton, N. C., April 4.—Deaths in the fire that destroyed the north wing of the Broad Oak sanitarium here yesterday were increased to four when Mrs. Cornelia Gaines, of Georgia, died today at a local hospital as a result of burns. Two women were burned to death in the fire and a man died last night. No others were injured.

The fire which damaged the private institution for treatment of nervous diseases resulted from an undetermined cause. Mrs. Isabel LaHereford, Union, W. Va., and Mrs. Julia Hamilton, Jacksonville, Fla., perished in the destruction of the wing of the building. J. P. Green, Charlotte contractor, died last night of burns received in saving other patients.

Dr. J. W. Vernon, who operates the sanitarium, announced today that he would rebuild at once.

SLAYER RUTHLESS, STATES MRS. HART

A long statement assailing J. B. Satterfield, sentenced to hang for the murder of R. H. Hart, and holding him responsible for the death of two of his daughters, was made Friday by Mrs. Hart, widow of the victim, who declared that the doomed man, through propaganda, is seeking to excite sympathy for himself.

She charges that he was directly responsible for the abuses heaped upon both of his own daughters, and hardships suffered by them after he took them from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Brown, who had been named their legal guardian, and that it was as a result of his treatment that one of them died in New Mexico after attempting suicide, and that the other, a little girl, was left to die in a railroad shanty.

Assails Satterfield.

Mrs. Hart also claims that Satterfield deserted his wife on her death bed, and that he refused to allow his children to attend their mother's funeral, taking them to a picture show while the services were being conducted.

Satterfield will hang April 25 unless the governor commutes his sentence to life imprisonment. He shot Hart to death in 1921 in a small drink stand on Trinity avenue, after driving him from his home, according to the contention of the state. Hart was a paralytic. Satterfield killed him, the prosecution set up, because Hart would not agree to Satterfield's squandering a small amount of property left to his two daughters, with Hart as executor of the will.

Satterfield "Haunted."

When Judge John D. Humphries sentenced Satterfield, the convicted man made a speech in which he said he was haunted by ghosts. In dealing with this claim, Mrs. Hart summarizes what she terms a long series of cruel acts by Satterfield as follows:

"Then this heartless father and slayer of a good and true man, says, 'A ghost haunts me.'

"Is it the ghost of his little dead daughter for whose misfortunes and death his brutal selfishness and neglect are responsible?

"Or is it the ghost of the beautiful babe girl who died in a railroad shanty of exposure and whose little dead body was drenched by the rain that blew in upon it?

"Or is it the ghost of the young, carefully nurtured girl he swore to protect and honor and whom he deserted on her deathbed because she refused to buy a whisky bill for him and whose dead body he left to be buried by strangers?

Is It Ghost of Victim?

"Or is it the ghost of his dead husband, who in memory of his sister sought to take up and carry on a burden of love that Satterfield had repeatedly refused, who welcomed him to our fireside and tried to lessen with him in a kind manner, who, paralyzed, grappled with this assassin, till realizing his helplessness, he ran in a vain effort to escape?

"Then not satisfied with what he had done, Satterfield the next day wrote a letter demanding money and threatening the life of the woman he had widowed and whose heart was crushed with sorrow and the horror of the awful shock she had suffered.

"The horror of that awful night that was injected into the tranquil lives of my children and me will never leave us. Mr. Satterfield's victim, as hundreds of friends will testify, was a man of highest moral character, known for his integrity and honor. He was a kind and loving husband and father and a loyal citizen who assumed his responsibility to his family and the community in which he lived."

Rains Fail To Discourage Crowds at Beautiful Homes

Despite torrential rains which Friday swept Atlanta's streets, thousands of home lovers again crossed the thresholds of the trio of "Home Beautiful" exhibits in Morningside, North Jackson street and Sylvan road. A consistent crowd during the day maintained the previous attendance records, and it was predicted that the remaining days of the exhibit would see additional thousands charmed by the outlay of home comfort schemes in the model residences.

On Sunday more than 35,000 persons were enchanted by the exhibits. Monday 15,000 poured in. Nearly 25,000 drank in the joy of perfect surroundings Tuesday and Wednesday, while the attendance was placed at 14,000 Thursday. And despite the rains and disagreeable weather Friday, more than 3,000 people visited the three houses.

The exhibits have been exclusively reserved for negroes Monday. This arrangement was made at their special request that the ideas they derive may prove valuable in arranging their residences to better advantage. Many of them are expected to install labor-saving devices in the homes, similar to the ones now on display.

The completeness of the homes is largely responsible for the great popularity of the show. From a home for a family of moderate means to one equipped with the lavish luxuries of life, nothing is omitted. And the crowds continue to attend in ever-increasing numbers.

Home building and interior arrangement accomplishments of generations are crowded into the three homes. Decoration experts, furniture manufacturers, silversmiths and tapestry designers are all represented to supreme advantage. The absorbing interest manifested by so many thousand Atlantans is well warranted. Never before has anything so complete been open to the people of the state. There are objects of interest for every member of the family.

of loading his band with treasure, gold and silver articles and whatever appealed to their aesthetic sense of value.

After having stopped at the village tavern for sometime until he learned who the richest and most prosperous inhabitants were—and there always seem to have been trusting souls, who took Maru into their full confidence on account of his guiless mien and innocent physiognomy—Maru began by circulating the rumor one night that he had encountered the werewolf, that terror of the Flemish peasant.

Werewolves Ran In Packs.

From that hour hardly a night passed but some good citizen same home struck with horror and out of breath as the result of a dash for liberty. It was always the same story. He had seen the devil in the form of a wolf. The werewolf was about and the undisputed fact that the beast was seen at different points, yet at exactly the same moment, only served to confirm belief in its supernatural origin.

It was the genial Maru, always a welcome guest at the tavern, who gave the remedy to banish the werewolf. He said the remedy had worked wonders in some town in the highlands of Spain. Perhaps he was right, strange things happen in Spain—of that every Fleming is positively certain. But the remedy consisted in forming a procession of every man, woman and child in the community on the night of the new moon when there was absolute darkness and march to the cemetery.

Suggests "Jars of Oil."

A priest should accompany the procession for the purpose of sprinkling holy water on the graves, for, said Maru, the werewolf is nothing in reality but some tortured soul that can not find rest in the grave. As we know not for certain which grave holds the skeleton of this unfortunate, we are forced to sprinkle water on each grave.

The peasants asked the cure about it and the latter in order to set their minds at peace went with them on the appointed night. The whole population was on the road, mayor, miller, baker, wine merchant, and bell ringer. Lighted tapers and torches led the way, altar boys swung censers, the priest mumbled his prayers.

They were away an hour and a half before every grave had been sealed against ghostly departures of the inhabitants.

But when they returned they discovered that their homes had been burglarized and that horses and carriages had been taken from the stables to carry off the loot. Maru's werewolves had done their work well.

Forty Crimes Charged.

The discovery of the immense loot storage place in an old German subterranean barracks, not unlike Ali Baba's famous cavern, led the police to capture the 36 subjects of Pere Maru in one haul.

Maru has been condemned to death with nine of his lieutenants, nine were sentenced to life imprisonment, 12 to 20 years each and one to 10 years.

The case attracted wide attention on account of the wide ramifications of the robber band. Forty distinct crimes, practically the whole criminal calendar, was charged against the bandits and the jury had to pass on no less than 333 questions.

the problem of where to place the amount of reductions in excise taxes. No definite conclusions were announced.

At an earlier session, however, the committee, upon request of Senators McCormick and McKinley, republicans, Illinois, and Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, did agree to the house action in cutting in half the tax on produce exchange sales amounting to 2 cents for each $100. The full tax previously had been restored to the bill by the committee. The cut involves a reduction in revenue estimated at $4,000,000.

May Report Bill Monday.

Obtaining the consent of the senate to adjourn until Monday, Chairman Smoot outlined a program for a full day of meetings tomorrow at which he plans to conclude consideration of the bill. If completed tomorrow Mr. Smoot assured President Coolidge today a report of the measure would be made to the senate Monday. Mr. Smoot was one of the group of senators invited to the white house breakfast conference today to consider the legislative situation.

Several days would be given after the measure is actually reported for study of the bill by members before it is taken up for debate, Mr. Smoot said.

Green Replies to Mellon.

Chairman Green, of the house ways and means committee, today issued a statement replying to Secretary Mellon's attack on the increase in the estate tax voted by the house and which was rejected last night by the senate finance committee.

"The extraordinary statement by Secretary Mellon with reference to the effect of the inheritance taxes in the house bill should not be allowed to pass without comment," Mr. Green said. "If the secretary is correctly reported in the newspapers, he stated the federal tax, with the addition of the various state taxes, would not only in many cases take more than half of the estate but in some intances consume nearly all of it. How far this is from being correct will be seen by a cursory examination of the provisionh of the bill under which, instead of its being possible to add the state taxes to the federal inheritance taxes, these are to be deducted, so that the total tax can in no event exceed the amount of the federal tax.

Denies Property Invasion.

"The secretary also speaks of the property of an estate being forced upon the market to pay the tax. The house bill allowed more than six years in which to make the payments. The secretary is also in error as to there having been no hearings on the inheritance tax.

"Secretary Mellon refers to the provisions of the house bill as an attempt to break up large fortunes. Had this been the object it certainly could not succeed, as the total annual tax received by the government is only a small percentage of the aggregate annual increase in the estates that are subject to the inheritance tax. One estate alone is generally believed to be increasing at the rate of nearly $100,000,000 per annum. It is obvious that the great estates will continue to grow in the future as they have in the past, notwithstanding the tax."

DEMOCRATS BARE ARMS TO DEFEND

repose of the late President Harding is a political ghoul.

"Who is the ghoul in this case?" Robinson shouted.

"I did not seek to hide behind him. I did not characterize as political ghouls those who say he made terrible mistakes. I have not and never had any disposition to speak disrespectfully of the late Senator Harding. As most senators know, he was my intimate personal friend."

Lodge Kills World Court.

Turning to the world court, Robinson charged that Lodge had pigeonholed it.

"Why this sudden attack on me?" Lodge protested. "You know I haven't delayed anything."

"I make this statement of personal knowledge," Robinson retorted. "Nothing has been delayed in the foreign relations committee except what the chairman desired to delay. I say now that the chairman of that committee (Lodge) has effectively, and I think permanently, pigeon-holed the world court proposal."

"I am ready to have it voted upon," Lodge insisted.

"All right, you'll get a vote then," Robinson replied.

Heflin Delivers Blast.

Heflin, the Alabama tornado, then opened up.

"Senator Pepper said the democrats aimed at the republicans and hit the country," he thundered. "He is wrong. We aimed at a crooked tree and three cabinet members fell out.

"Representative Longworth in his speech at Philadelphia last night calls the democrats buzzards. But if the republicans will stop furnishing dead carcasses for the buzzards to feed on, the buzzards will disappear. He suggests that the democrats use the buzzard as a party emblem. I suggest that the republicans use a dead elephant with an oil can tied to his tail, as their emblem.

"If all the crooked republicans were hit, they would be piled up around the capitol."

Connally Raps Coolidge.

Meanwhile, in the house, Tom Connally, of Texas, assailed Coolidge.

"President Coolidge removed Secretary Denby and Attorney General Daugherty either because he thought they were guilty or because he had not the moral stamina to protect innocent men," Connally declared. Answering the criticism of the investigations, Connally declared that no republican objected until official corruption was uncovered.

Tincher, of Kansas, retorted that the republicans are not opposing proper investigations, but that "the country is getting tired of you democrats playing politics with them."

SPEECH OF PEPPER CALLED "COWARDICE."

Washington, April 4.—The republican party will sound its own death knell if it enters the campaign on the "cowardly" cry of "blame it all on Harding," former Attorney General Daugherty declared in a formal statement Friday replying to the keynote speech delivered by Senator Pepper at Portland, Maine.

Daugherty said Pepper was disappointed because he was not made solicitor general under Daugherty and that this was behind the Pennsylvania senator's attempts to get Daugherty out of the cabinet.

Daugherty, in biting language, declared that the republican party would commit a blunder as serious as the "rum, Romanism and rebellion" episode if it attempted to blame its troubles on the late president.

Spells Party Death.

Incidentally, he dragged one political skeleton out of the closet and threatened to trot out others if the attacks on him continue.

Daugherty said he had read Pepper's Portland speech with amazement.

"A few more keynote speeches of this character would sound the death knell of republican success in the coming election," Daugherty said.

"While he affects to denounce as ghouls those who would attack the memory of President Harding, yet in his speech, in its intended and inevitable implication, he asks that the republican party defend itself in the coming campaign by the cowardly cry: 'Blame it on Harding.'

Recalls Burchard Speech.

"No American of this generation was better loved than President Harding, and any attempt to curry favor with the living president by imputing so-called mistakes, however veiled the phrase, to the dead president, is not calculated to maintain the solidarity of the republican party. I recall that many years ago a man of self-assumed and unctuous rectitude defeated the republican party by sounding a keynote which was resented by thousands of republicans.

"Senator Pepper makes a strong bid in his so-called keynote speech to become the Burchard of today, and to outshine his famous predecessor in the Blaine campaign.

Out Bobs Skeleton.

"I should have preferred to take up at a later time the full story of Senator Pepper's animosity to me, but as a loyal republican I feel that I must at this time sound a warning against his misguided attempt to make the battle cry of the republican party at the coming election, 'Blame it all on Harding.'"

The ex-attorney general then said that Pepper wanted to be solicitor general, but that Senators Knox and Penrose both refused to endorse him on the ground that he was not qualified by experience or temperament. He also criticized Pepper for prejudging his case, which is still before the Daugherty investigating committee.

Ends With Threat.

"I regret the necessity of making this statement, for Senator Pepper's opinions are a matter of indifference to me personally, but his suggested defense of the republican party in its implied and most unjustifiable reflection on the administration of President Harding is one that, if persisted in, will justly invite the resentment of hosts of republicans—a consummation which I will do everything in my power to prevent," Daugherty said.

"If further attacks of the character which called for this reply shall emanate from the same or kindred sources, they will be replied to, with other and further information which will not be without interest to the public."

We had other trucks in service that same morning to replace those burned, due to the kindness of the Reed Oil Corporation, The Wofford Oil Company, The Continental Oil Company, and The White Eagle Oil Company in loaning us their equipment.

We assure the same prompt deliveries and service as heretofore.

LAFOLLETTE LOSES SINGLE DELEGATE

Milwaukee, Wis., April 4.—Hope of President Calvin Coolidge to obtain at least two Wisconsin delegates pledged to him at the republican national convention at Cleveland appeared shattered late today by the victory of Congressman H. A. Cooper, La Follette delegate in the first district, who defeated the Coolidge delegate, J. A. Craig, as shown by complete official returns.

The sole Coolidge Wisconsin delegate, as shown by offical returns, is Thomas Scott, first district, who polled the second largest vote. The vote between Craig and Cooper was close, less than 600 votes separating the two, and there still remains the possibility of a contest. J. B. Christoph, the other La Follette district delegate, ran approximately 2,000 votes behind Craig.

In the remainder of the state, late official returns failed to change the previously reported showing of complete victory for La Follette delegates and the comfortable lead of delegates at large pledged to support Governor Al Smith, of New York, at the democratic national convention over the delegates supporting W. G. McAdoo.

JAPANESE PIRATES SLEW 35 RUSSIANS INDICTMENT SAYS

Tokio, April 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rekichino Ezure and 25 of his followers who, after an unsuccessful hunt for gold in the Okhotsk region of Siberia, turned pirates, seized two Russian ships and, it is charged, killed the crews numbering 35 Russians, were indicted today for piracy on the high seas. All defendants are Japanese.

The motive for the piracy, Ezure declared, was a desire to avenge the Nikolaevsk massacre of 700 Japanese by Russians in March, 1920.

After slaying the seamen, the only loot the craft offered was fish oil cargo valued at 60,000 yen. This was disposed of in Hokkaido. When the spoils had been divided the men scattered. Subsequently all have been rounded up.

Ezure and his companions will go on trial in Tokio late this month.

Miss Lela Bernice Duncan, of New York city, a junior at the University of Kansas, has been appointed one of the two Kansas University Women's Athletic association's delegates to the conference of the National Women's Athletic association in Berkeley, Calif., this year.

Ford Has Failed To Keep Promise To Leland, Claim

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—Hailed as a philanthropist and a doer of good deeds when he took over the Lincoln Motor company a year ago, Henry Ford has been made the object of charges by Henry M. and Wilfred C. Leland, founders of the Lincoln concern, that he failed to keep his agreement to reimburse the company's stockholders.

In a letter to Ford just made public, the Lelands claim Ford made the agreement at the time of the sale, when the Lincoln company was in the hands of a federal receiver, and that while he reimbursed creditors, he has failed to pay the stockholders or give the Lelands the right to direct the concern's affairs, as they say he promised.

Court action will be taken, the Lincoln firm's founders threaten, unless Ford proceeds to abide by the agreement.

It is charged that Ford promised to form an independent organization in the Lincoln plants to be handled by the Lelands without interference from Ford or members of his organization.

The letter ends with the statement that when the writer went to Ford's home to interview him he was met at the back gate by an armed guard "who pointed a pistol at me and ordered me to stop."

Later, Leland says, he obtained a two-hour interview with the manufacturer, at which Ford again promised to carry out the agreement, but that he has since failed to do so.

Ford has not answered Leland's letter.

GOMPERS DENIES HE WAS STRICKEN AT CONFERENCE

New York, April 4.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, reported stricken with vertigo during an address today before the conference board of physicians in industry, declared through his secretary tonight that he had not been ill—his throat had merely become husky and he wanted to save his voice for a speech at Bethlehem, Pa., Sunday.

Physicians in his audience noticed he appeared fatigued and ill as he rose to read his address.

Those at the speakers' table insisted that Mr. Gompers sit down. He permitted them to lead him to a chair, and handed his address to his secretary, to be read.

The address recounted what had been accomplished to prolong the lives and insure the health of workmen since he, a union cigar maker, helped abolish sweat shop and tenement cigar manufacture and institute the first rules for shop sanitation in this city, 60 years ago.

He concluded by advocating the establishment of workers' clinics, to be maintained jointly by employers, workmen and federal or state health departments, "clinics where professional services could be had for charges that would not debar the poor."

HOTEL PROPRIETOR IS FOUND GUILTY OF BOOZE CHARGE

Claude Butts, proprietor of the Blue Ridge hotel, at Blue Ridge, was found guilty Friday of maintaining a public nuisance in violation of the federal prohibition law. Judge Sibley sentenced him to pay a fine of $200 and spend two months in jail.

Mark Padgett, a bellboy, also was convicted and sent to jail for three months in connection with the same violation. It was claimed by the government that the hotel man operated a place which was notorious as a whisky house. His first trial several days ago resulted in a mistrial.

HARRISON IS INDICTED

Larceny After Trust Charged in True Bill.

The Fulton county grand jury Friday returned an indictment charging Fred E. Harrison, Atlanta lawyer, with larceny after trust, in the alleged conversion to his own use of $100 alleged to have been turned over to him by Mrs. Royal J. Clark, 309 Sells avenue, to put up as bond for release of her son, Charles F. Clark, under arrest for alleged larceny.

Attorney Harrison was scheduled to face trial Thursday on a similar charge, but the case was checked for two weeks because of the absence of a material witness in Tampa.

EVANS TO ADDRESS ENDEAVORERS TODAY

Despite the downpour of rain large crowds attended all sessons of the State Christian Endeavor convention Friday at Westminster Presbyterian church. The day's program was concluded with a highly enjoyable social hour at night following a service at which Dr. Ben R. Lacy, Jr., pastor of Central Presbyterian church, and Dr. R. F. Kirkpatrick, of Anderson, S. C., former state president, were principal speakers.

Another feature of the night session was the message of State President Clyde Underhill, of Savannah, and the report of the secretary, Miss Margaret LaBoon, of Good Hope.

Simultaneous conferences were led Friday morning by Dr. E. B. Quick, G. L. Johnson, Rev. R. C. Long, C. C. Hamilton, Mrs. T. C. Callaway, C. F. Evans, Miss Mamie Gene Cole and Mrs. B. M. Butler.

The convention will reassemble at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Charles F. Evans, southern secretary, will announce plans for the all-south convention planned for July 10-14 at Richmond. Rev. W. G. Carter, pastor of East Point Christian church, will lead a devotional service. A demonstration in intermediate Christian Endeavor work will be conducted by Mrs. T. C. Callaway, state superintendent. "Hoe to Grip and Hold the Teen Age" is the topic of an address to be given by C. C. Hamiltan, national field secretary for the United Society of Christian Endeavor. "Is It Worth While?" will be the subject of an address by Richard Clarke.

Rev. J. G. Patton, Jr., pastor of Pryor Street Presbyterian church, will conduct devotional exercises at the opening of the afternoon session, which will be featured by reports and conferences which will be completed at 2:15 o'clock, at which time the convention will adjourn for recreation until 6 o'clock.

At 6 o'clock the senior and intermediate banquets will begin. Thomas A. Move, president of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union, will be toastmaster at the senior banquet; and Dean Rusk, president of the in toastmaster at the senior banquet, at the intermediate. Another joint convention session will follow the banquets. Sessions will continue through Sunday.

G. O. P. LEADER FIGHTS SANDLIN APPOINTMENT

Washington, April 4.—Renewed efforts to bring about the selection of Judson M. Grimmett, of Shreveport, as federal judge for the western district of Louisiana, were made by Emile Kuntz, republican national committeeman for Louisiana, during a visit today at the white house.

Mr. Kuntz presented, he said, 300 telegrams and letters from citizens of the western district indorsing Mr. Grimmett and opposing the stand taken by Senators Ransdell and Broussard that no republican qualified to fill the judgeship could be found in the district. He was supported in his indorsement by J. M. S. Whittington, United States marshal for the district. Senators Ransdell and Broussard have recommended appointment of Representative Sandlin, a democrat, and the president conferred yesterday with Mr. Sandlin.

THREE BANKS FAIL; DEPOSITS $2,065,000

Sterling, Colo., April 4.—The First National Bank of Sterling was closed today by order of the board of directors.

On December 31 the bank's statement showed deposits were $922,000.

Beatrice, Neb., April 4.—Word was received here that the First National Bank of Marysville, Kan., closed its doors yesterday. Frozen assets was said to be the cause. The bank had deposits in excess of $700,000.

St. Paul, Minn., April 4.—The Maple State bank, with deposits of $443,000 and a capital of $15,000, has been closed because of depleted reserves, A. J. Viegel, state superintendent of banks, announced today.

Six centuries ago Edward II forbade the playing of football in England because it was noisy.

CHARGE OF FIXING PRICES IS FILED AGAINST 2 FIRMS

Washington, April 4.—The federal trade commission announced today that it had cited the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky and the Cleveland Metal Products company, of Cleveland, on charges of unfair competition in an alleged price maintenance scheme for the sale of kerosene stoves and heaters manufactured by the latter company.

In separate complaints the two companies are charged with cooperating to maintain fixed prices for the resale of the Cleveland company's products by dealers through a system of "informal understanding and arrangements" with the latter. Dealers refusing to enter into such an understanding, it is alleged, are not permitted to handle the products.

620 DELEGATES SURE FOR COOLIDGE, CLAIM

Washington, April 4.—Prediction was made here today by William M. Butler, manager of President Coolidge's campaign for the republican presidential nomination, that by April 22, a total of 620 delegates, or 60 more than necessry to nominate, will have been selected and pledged to vote for Coolidge.

Mr. Butler listed 385 delegates instructed or favorable to the president to date, including the 15 instructed yesterday by Maine, the 17 chosen by Connecticut and announced as favorable to the president, and eigh district delegates pledged to the president yesterday in Missouri.

The Coolidge manager predicted the president would get the 12 Nebraska district delegates in the state primary April 8 and the seven delegates at large from that state to be selected at a state convention May 1, although Senator Johnson is making a spirited campaign there.

No plans have yet been made for a campaign manager in event of the president's nomination, Mr. Butler said, adding that he hoped "to take an active part in the post-convention campaign, because of my interest in the party and in the probable candidate." He mentioned in this connection, however, that he had announced himself as a candidate for the republican senatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

Mr. Butler said he thought "the senate investigation would pass from the public mind and that the campaign would proceed in a normal way after the convention."

TWO BOYS FIRE IN MOCK DUEL; ONE IS KILLED

Summit, N. J., April 4.—Two boys, sons of wealthy New York and Summit families, stood on opposite sides of a bed in a mock cowboy duel with revolvers and at the word "draw" fired at each other.

Unknown to them, one of the guns was loaded and Noel Danforth, 15, was shot through the right breast by his playmate, Andrew Magrauth, 14. He ran from the room screaming "I'm shot" and died before an ambulance arrived.

The tragedy took place in the home of Joseph Walker Magrauth, New York lawyer, where the dead boy had come to visit for the day. The latter was the son of George H. Danforth, of the American Bank Note company, New York, who died a year ago. Mrs. Danforth is traveling in Europe.

CHURCH MEN TO SEEK HEARING WITH HUGHES

Nashville, Tenn., April 4.—Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, supervisor for the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in its European missions, and Dr. E. H. Rawlings, European missionary secretary for the church, left here tonight for Washington, where they will confer with Secretary Hughes and other state department officials.

The conference relates to missions to Poland, and the bishop said he probably would discuss his plans with the Polish embassy, and would spend several days at the capital.

UNDERWOOD CLAIMS GROWTH IN STRENGTH

Washington, April 4.—Assertion that in the ten states in which delegates have been selected to the democratic national convention, Senator Underwood, of Alabama, has obtained 66 delegates against 53 for William G. McAdoo, and 51 for all others, was made in a statement issued here tonight by C. C. Carlin, chairman of the Underwood campaign committee.

Campaign results this week in Arizona, Iowa, Wisconsin and Maine were declared to have given a "decided impetus" throughout the country to the Underwood campaign.

"Senator Underwood is either the first or second choice of practically every state in the north and east, and is developing a most gratifying strength throughout the entire west," Mr. Carlin said. "He will be the second choice of the southern states which are supporting native sons, and will carry a majority of the rest of the states in the south."

In Arizona, the first state west of the Mississippi where Senator Underwood has contested with Mr. McAdoo, the result, fiving Underwood, Mr. Carlin said, four of the six whole votes, was cited as of "far-reaching importance." The result in Iowa, which he claimed gave Underwood the entire delegation under the unit rule, also was pointed to as significant because that state "is in the section where the so-called progressive strength is greatest."

RIVAL LEADERS CLAIM DELEGATION FROM IOWA

Des Moines, Iowa, April 4.—Iowa's delegates to the democratic national convention, under the unit rule, though uninstructed, will vote for William G. McAdoo as long as there is any possibility of nominating him, according to E. T. Meredith, chairman of the Iowa delegation chosen at the state convention held at Davenport yesterday. Mr. Meredith declared a canvass of the delegation had assured him that at least 18 of the 30 delegates favored McAdoo and would vote for him as long as he could be considered in the race.

Mr. Meredith referred to the claim of representatives of Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, who contended that Underwood will have enough votes to insure him support by this state.

Washington, April 4.—The claim that the McAdoo forces will have twenty of Iowa's delegates to the democratic national convention was described today by C. C. Carlin, manager of Senator Underwood's campaign, as "ridiculous." He declared there were on the contrary, 16 1-2 anti-McAdoo votes in the delegation, which would mean a solid anti-McAdoo delegation under the unit rule.

METHODISTS PLAN CENTRAL OFFICES FOR WASHINGTON

New York, April 4.—A plan for the establishment in Washington, D. C., of a central headquarters for the church in this country will be laid before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Springfield, Mass., next month, the Rev. George M. Fowles, of New York, treasurer of the board of foreign missions, told delegates to the New York conference today.

In asking support of his proposal, which later was voted, Dr. Fowles said that the Roman Catholics had taken greater steps than any other religion to establish themselves in the national capital, and urged immediate steps by the Methodists to the same end.

United States District Attorney Hayward, in an address on prohibition before the laymen's association of the church, declared that persons in New York who have "honestly and sincerely attempted to enforce prohibition are so few that I can count them on the fingers of my two hands."

ST. LAWRENCE CANAL URGED BY KELLOGG

Manchester, Eng., April 4.—Frank B. Kellogg, American ambassador to Great Britain, at a dinner given in his honor by the Manchester branch of the Anglo-American society here tonight, expressed the hope that Canada and the United States together would build a St. Lawrence river canal, enabling ocean-going ships to go from Manchester to far into the interior of the United States and Canada.

Referring to the European difficulties the ambassador declared that the United States never had turned a deaf ear to the call of humanity and was certainly not indifferent to conditions in Europe.

Lakewood Race Set for April 12

Bringing together some of the best dirt track drivers in the country, Manager R. M. Striplin has announced that he will open Lakewood park next Saturday afternoon with a crack pragrom of automobile racing events on the mile track.

Plans for the meet were completed yesterday and Mr. Striplin left at once for Florida to secure the entries of several crack pilots who have been wintering at the beach resorts in that state. He will return here Monday and expects to bring back at least a half dozen signatures. Some of the drivers now in Florida include Louis Disbrow, speedway and dirt track veteran; Larry D. Stone, of Birmingham; Walter Purvis, of Jacksonville, and Cleo Sarles, of Des Moines. With the exception of Disbrow, who has been wintering with his family at Miami, these drivers have been tuning up new speed creations on the sand courses.

A half dozen or more drivers from the northern states are expected to reach the city Tuesday or Wednesday. Mr. Striplin declared before his departure for the south yesterday that he hoped to induce Ralph DePalma, speedway idol who has abandoned the boards for the dirt tracks, to come here. Haugdahl, the world's speed king and widely known in Atlanta; Horey, track champion; Claypool, Kansas City phenom and big money winner with his Puegeot at the fair last fall, are also expected to sign up.

Petrels Postpone Today's Contest

With Hermance field looking more like a swimming pool than a baseball diamond the scheduled game yesterday between the Oglethorpe Petrels and the Mercer Baptists was postponed. The second game of the series, booked for this afternoon, has also been set aside.

Although the game was postponed the Mercer team was in town, but remained here for a few minutes only, leaving immediately for Macon, its home.

The rest will be enjoyed by the whole Petrel aggregation, especially Partridge, Barbee and Parrish, who are on the injured list.

Monday afternoon the Oglethorpe nine and the nine representing Furman university will clash in what is expected to be an interesting contest. The following day they will do battle again.

ATLANTA WINS FIRST ROUND OF VOLLEY BALL TOURNEY

The semi-finals in the Southern Y. M. C. A. volley ball tournament will be played this afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock on the Y. M. C. A. court with the locals and Chattanooga listed as the feature game. The other games for this afternoon are Jacksonville and Durham, while Greenville who drew a bye all the way into the semi finals will meet the winner of the Atlanta-Chattanooga contest.

Chattanooga and Augusta put up the best exhibition of volley ball during the first day's play, Chattanooga winning all three games by scores of 15-12, 15-14 and 15-8. The first two games of the set were nip and tuck from the very beginning and only a rally in the latter part of the game gave Chattanooga the edge in the match.

The Jacksonville team eliminated Piedmont, Ala., Y in three straight games. The scores were 15-12, 15-6 and 15-12.

The Durham, N. C., team also won its second game of the tourney by disposing of Knoxville in short order, winning the first two games, while the third was not played.

The Atlanta, Durham, N. C., and Jacksonville, Fla., volley ball teams were winners Friday afternoon in the first round of the tournament.

The first game of the afternoon card was by far the best and only a good start saved the Jacksonville Y team from defeat at the hands of the LaGrange team. The scores of the first match were 15-4, 15-13 and 13-15, giving Jacksonville the best two out of three matches. The work of Barrus, former Tech swimming star, and Captain Thompson was the outstanding feature of the game.

Durham Defeats Montgomery.

The Durham, N. C., Y team won all three matches from the Montgomery Y, ending the match with scores of 15-6, 15-5 and 15-9. The work of Alexander, Swain and Sorrell featured for the winners.

Both Ott and Hogan played good ball for the losers but lack of cooperation in returning the ball resulted in defeat of the Montgomery Y team.

Atlanta Defeats Athens.

The Atlanta Y. M. C. A. team won a right to play in the second round of the tourney by disposing of the Athens Y team in the best two out of three matches. The scores were 15-1, 15-8 and 7-15.

The Atlanta team started off fast and kept up a fast pace all during the first game, giving the Athenians only one point for the first game.

The Athens team staged a comeback in the latter part of the second game but could not overcome the lead piled up by the locals. In the last game the Athens team kept up the good work that was started in the latter part of the second game and easily won the last game.

Captain Slate, Akers and Mayfield played stellar ball for the winners while Holt and Hutchens played good ball for the losers.

TECH-AUBURN RATS PLAN TWIN BILL

The J. Pluvius rain team defeated the Auburn rats and the Tech rats 0-0 in a no-inning game yesterday. J. Pluvius, chief luminary for his team, was quite effective, allowing no man to reach first base.

To get down to the facts in the case, the Tech field was about two inches deep in water yesterday, and still rising. Any sort of play on the field was impossible.

However, Coach Amis announced one cheering fact. Said he, that, weather permitting, there would be a double-header today. If it should clear up during the night, then at 2 this afternoon, the two teams will begin hostilities. Both games will be seven inning affairs.

Augusta Finals Go On Today

Augusta, Ga., April 4.—Rain fell all day today causing the feature events in the singles finals of the South Atlantic States tennis tournament here to be postponed until tomorrow. Hundreds of fans from out of town were disappointed at not getting a chance to see William Tilden, II, of Philadelphia, in action. He was matched to play in the finals of the men's singles with Lawrence Rice, of Boston. All finals in both singles and doubles will be played tomorrow beginning in the morning if the weather will permit.

Firpo in "Last Fight" Tonight

Buenos Aires, April 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—After two weeks of the hardest training since he prepared for his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York last summer, Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight champion, enters the ring here tomorrow night with Al Reich, American boxer, in what he says will be his last fight. Firpo has trained faithfully for this fight because he believes Reich is superior to both "Farmer" Lodge and Erminio Spalla and says he does not intend to be remembered as having ended his career inglorious-ly

BABE RUTH HERE TODAY IN YANK-DODGER GAME

King of Swat Will Shoot At Mark Set in Giants' Game Against White Sox

BY HENRY ALLEN.

Bab Ruth, king of swat, idol of baseball, and the man with a thousand other cognomens, will be the guest of honor in our midst today, if old Jupe Pluvius decides to call halt in his activities.

The mighty Babe is scheduled to hold sway at Spiller's field when the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers clash in the feature game of the magnificent exhibition schedule arranged by Jack Corbett.

The Babe and this crew of notables in the baseball world are due to arrive in the city early this morning from Savannah. The game scheduled in that city yesterday was postponed because of the rain which started falling early in the morning.

This will be the first appearance here of the New York Yankees, the world's champions, in three years. During the last appearance the Bambino came through with a slashing homer, this feat being welcomed by the vast throng that packed the old stands at Spiller's field.

Will Have Mark.

And today "The Babe" will have a mark to shoot at, for George Kelley and Sheeley, of the Giants and White Sox respectively, both crashed out two of the longest homers ever seen at Ponce de Leon, which is now Spiller's field.

Kelley hit a homer which landed on the top of the stands in left field. He later crashed another on top of the stands which fell foul by just a few inches. Sheeley hit one which hit the top of the stands and bounced out into the playing field.

The Babe will have the bank in right field to shoot at instead of the left field stands. He is a left hand hitter. There is no doubt but that the new stands will be taxed to a capacity today if the weather is good. Practically all of the seats in the new stands will be erected by time of the game and the capacity for the entire park will be around 13,500.

Atlanta fans have long looked forward to this game. It is without a doubt the feature attraction of the exhibition schedule.

Newberry Will Play.

Another interesting feature of the game is the fact that Fred Newberry, the youngster who was sold to the Yankees last season, will be with Miller Huggins' outfit. Newberry, although he played with Macon last season, was the property of the Crackers and was sold last fall.

According to the baseball experts accompanying the Yankees on their tour, there is great possibility of Newberry sticking with the squad. A battle for the position is being waged by Newberry and another left-hand youngster named Shields.

The rain which fell yesterday caused the Cracker game with the Buffalo Internationals to be postponed. Nichoff was forced to keep his squad indoors.

Wanted To See Slappey.

McLaughlin and Slappey had been picked to do the hurling for the Crackers in yesterday's fracas. Nichoff was very anxious to get a line on Slappey's ability. The big left-hander got off to a bad start in the game Monday and was to be sent to the mound again yesterday.

The squad will be sent to Grant field this morning to have their workout as the Spiller's field will be occupied by the big leaguers during the afternoon.

SAVANNAH GAME IS RAINED OUT.

Savannah, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) "Rained out" were the fans of Savannah today who had expected to see the world-known king of swat, Babe Ruth, in action in a practice game between the Rochester team here in training and the New York Yankees on a playing trip toward the east. The Yanks left tonight for Atlanta for a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow. The Bambino declared his conviction that the Yanks will win the world series again this fall.

PREPS SUBSTITUTE TANK MEET FOR BASEBALL GAME

BY GORDON KEITH.

To say that the prep diamond battles scheduled for Friday afternoon were rained out would be employing a phrase entirely too weak to do justice to the noble efforts of Jupe Pluvius and his cohorts, who were quite successful in converting the various diamonds and playing fields into so many lakes.

In fact, so successful was the weatherman in impressing the fans of his ability as a producer of fish parades, etc., that Boys' High and Tech High got together and staged a swimming meet at the "Y" pool Friday night instead of engaging Marist and G. M. A. in the national pastime in the afternoon. The meet had been scheduled for the Friday preceding, but the pool was out of condition on that night and the aquatic meet had been indefinitely postponed.

The games rained out were the Tech High-Marist game scheduled for Almond park, the University-Fulton battle booked for Brisbane park, and the Boys' High-G. M. A. game scheduled to start on the College Park grounds.

Tech-Marist Rearranged.

The Tech High-Marist game has been set for Monday, April 14, on the same grounds. The other games have not yet been re-scheduled.

The Prep league ruling on the matter of postponed games is that the games must be played before the end of the season, or be forfeited. This was to insure the playing off of all belated games before the closing of the season, so the league leader could go ahead and be awarded the pennant and not be forced to await the playing off of several long-forgotten games.

Hughes To Go Abroad.

Washington, April 4.—Unless unforeseen hindrances develop Secretary Hughes said today he would go to England in July with the American Bar association to be the guest of the British Bar association. At present, it was said, there is nothing in prospect in foreign affairs likely to upset the secretary's plans.

ALA. GOLFERS WIN FROM TECH

Anyone desiring a full definition of the word "downpour" as applied to natural precipitation probably can obtain it in various and sundry forms by applying to any of the eight young men who swam and waded alternately over the Druid Hills course yesterday in the Alabama-Tech golf match.

When the swimming, wading and diving after immersed golf balls had run the length of the course, the count showed the young men from the University of Alabama holding 16 points to Tech's one.

Play started with Glen Crisman, of Alabama, stacking his variety of golf against that of Bill Spalding, of Tech, and Jack Crenshaw, of Alabama, shooting against Bip Farnsworth, of Tech. Files Crenshaw, of Alabama, was matched against Lynn, and Bobby Baugh was playing against Taylor, Tech's fourth golfer.

It was an imposing array of talent that the Tech quartet started out to whip. For instance, Glen Crisman holds the Alabama state title; Files Crenshaw is a former Alabama state champion and Jack Crenshaw is southern intercollegiate champion.

Bip Farnsworth obtained Tech's only point after he had tied Crenshaw on the last hole of the second nine. Two extra holes were played and Tech's lone point came on the twentieth by virtue of Bip's victory on the last nine.

Crisman and Baugh both turned in 78's, while Files Crenshaw showed an 81 and Jack Crenshaw an 83. Taylor came in with 82, the lowest score of the Tech men, with Lynn making it in 83, and Spalding and Farnsworth coming around in 86 apiece.

Waiver Refused In Stribling Case

New York, April 4.—William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., school boy light heavyweight, must confine his boxing in New York state to six round encounters, the state athletic commission decided today in refusing a request of "Pa" Stribling, his manager, to match his son in a 12-round bout at an Olympic fund benefit show here. Stribling is only 19 years old and the state boxing law prohibits boxers under 21 from competing in exhibitions of more that six rounds.

In refusing to waive the law, Chairman George F. Brower said the commission did not wish to establish a precedent.

"Pa" Stribling announced he would not allow his son to compete in six round bouts and told the commission he would not take out a license in this state on the basis permitted. Promoters of the Olympic show on April 29 had sought to match Stribling with Mike Burke, New York light heavyweight, for a 12-round contest.

"Pa" Stribling also declared his son was ready to meet again Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, whom the Georgian outpointed decisively in 12 rounds at Newark last Monday night. Newark promoters have begun negotiations to bring the pair together for a third time in an outdoor contest June 2.

Arthur Havers, left, British open champion, who plays Bobbie Jones, right, of Atlanta, open champion of the United States, on the East Lake golf course today.

Both Shooting Wonderful Golf as They Prepare For International Match

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Despite the most hysterical set of elements seen in this world since Commander Noah, the hippopotami and the assorted bacilli made their celebrated cruise to Ararat—this is the day when Bobby Jones, American open champion, and Arthur Havers, British open champion, engage in their great 36-hole match over the East Lake course.

The morning round begins at 10, the afternoon at 2:30.

It will take a veritable deluge to postpone the match and if there are any gentle readers who have doubts about the exact amount of rainfall necessary to bring about a deluge—they can ascertain what was happening to Mr. Tom Paine, the writer and about a dozen others while they followed Bobby, Francis Ouimet, Perry Adair and Charlie Black, Jr., at East Lake Friday afternoon.

That, ladies and gentlemen, is a deluge; nothing else.

The weatherman has the chance of a life-time, a chance to raise himself from the abysmal depths of my opinion to which he has sunk to the heights of popularity with me and something like humpteen hundred other people who intend wearing one of the little tags entitling them to view what should be the greatest golf match ever shot beneath southern skies. If he reaches into the meteorological grab bag and hauls out a sunshiny, perfect day—as he promises—off goes my hat to him, although it is too wet just at present to be very impressive. On the other hand, if he turns on the juice again he is just about as popular with me as a carbuncle usurping the back collar button's parking space.

Match a Masterpiece.

Because this match beween the hard-hitting Bobby and the hard-hitting Arthur is a veritable masterpiece in the making. If it is possible to think up anything with more wonderful possibilities, the gentleman who thinks it up will please write a letter about it.

Both are shooting wonderful golf—hitting them a mile and doing all sorts of uncanny things with mashies, niblicks and putters. Havers tried out the East Lake course and apparently found it to his liking, for he scored mighty well in his initial round.

Bobby probably wouldn't thank me very much for insinuating that he is on his game, because the last time he waggled his clubs was in that ever-to-be-remembered flood that inundated East Lake Friday afternoon. For a time it looked as if the foursome would not be able to leave the club-house, which felt exceptionally comfortable while the rain was pelting down outside.

But after talking the matter over deliberately and a bowl of vegetable soup, they decided to fare forth, no matter what. Followed by a dejected looking gallery of about a dozen, they fired away from the first tee into the ocean before them.

Pass Up No. 5.

The first four holes were weathered bravely, but number five was passed up and they shot number eight—there to call it a day and swim back to the club house.

After everybody had jumped into the lake as a means of drying off to a certain extent the whole party went by for a few words with Scott Hudson, who has been ill at home for seven weeks, but announces now—to the gratification of his many friends—that he will begin sitting up Sunday. He's on the road to complete recovery and ought to be out again before many days have sped by.

There will be a large gallery on hand for the match today, no matter what happens. And if the weather should fair up and adorn itself with the sunny complexion it has worn consistently until Friday, there should be a positively tremendous gang following the two participants in the international affair.

SCOTDALE TEAM ISSUES CHALLENGE

The Scotdale baseball team wishes to arrange a game with any strong amateur ball club in or around Atlanta, to be played on either diamond. Anyone wishing to arrange a game should call R. W. Parks, at Decatur 0320.

TECH NINE SWAMPS AUBURN; REEVES HITS THREE HOMERS

BY EMMET SIZEMORE.

Auburn, Ala., April 4.—(Special.)—Two Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets triumphed over the Auburn Tigers today with a 17 to 5 score in the first contest of a two-game series being played here this week-end. The game was played on a muddy field.

The Atlanta diamond outfit started with a shower of safe bingles which netted it a margin of six runs during the first frame. With one Tech batter down, Market, pitching for Auburn, retired in favor of "Doug" Knight. Auburn failed to score in the first inning.

Coach Clay's batters at the beginning of the second found the pill for two home runs in rapid succession, "Bob" Reeves, Tech shortstop, and Morgan, second baseman, slammed out long ones through center for round trips. During the course of the afternoon's entertainment Reeves hit three home runs and two singles in a half dozen trips to the plate.

Tigers Score in Second.

The Tigers registered their initial journey around the square in the second inning. Maury was out at first, after which Ansley took a free trip to first on balls, going to second when Harrison was out at first. Ansley stole third and scored on Davis' hit via third base.

Tech added three runs in the fourth, two in the fifth, two in the sixth and two in the seventh. Auburn scored two runs each in the fifth and eighth innings. Hines replaced Knight as pitcher for Auburn at the beginning of the fifth.

Tech's total number of home runs figured five, while the Auburnites realized one homer when Stewart hit a long one in the fifth. In addition to the three homers copped by Reeves, Morgan, second baseman, and Palmisano, catcher, made the rounds on a single clout.

Tech Gets 15 Hits.

Numerous hits seemed available for both teams, Tech getting 15 safe ones while the Plainsmen went on record with seven. While Reeves' trio of homers featured in Tech's work, Morgan proved his worth. In addition to his homer and two singles, he was successful in fielding 10 chances perfectly. Yeoman, Jacket center fielder, brought down a number of long ones off the Auburn bats.

Allen led Auburn's hitting with a pair of safe ones in five efforts. Harrison's work in center field proved an outstanding feature of Auburn's fielding.

It is expected that the batteries for Saturday's game will be: Auburn, Sitz and Davis; Tech, Collins and Palmisano.

At 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning the Auburn Tiger tracksters and the cindermen from the University of Georgia will open their 1924 track season in a dual meet on the Auburn campus.

REFEREE CAN REFUSE TO GIVE TIME

BY WALTER CAMP.

(By Special Leased Wire, Copyright, 1924.)

This is the fifth of a series of dispatches by Mr. Camp interpreting the changes in the football rules, decided upon by the football rules committee at its recent meeting in New York.

New York, April 4.—One of the most drastic steps taken by the football rules committee to prevent "stalling" was the giving of arbitrary power to the referee to refuse to take time out when, in his judgment, a team attempts unfairly to gain time by sending in substitutes or by other means.

Another rule which is expected to have quite an effect on efforts to delay the game is that which provides a more severe penalty for captains taking time out too frequently in a half. Under the old rule, a captain could take time out three times in a half without penalty. Thereafter, a penalty of two yards was inflicted for each taking of time out. The new rule allows time out four times in a half, but makes the penalty for additional delays five yards for each offense.

The committee also voted to authorize the field judge to increase his sphere operations by assisting the referee and other officials in the matter of determining fouls. A special committee, consisting of Messrs. Varnell, Okeson and Morice, was named to draft a more definite extension of the duties of this official, to be acted upon at the 1925 meeting.

The 1924 referee probably will "pack" a gun—not to enforce his decrees but to use in place of his whistle to indicate the expiration of a period. Committee members from the Pacific coast reported that the public out there was much pleased at the innovation of pistol shots to mark the end of periods and it was generally understood that the practice would be brought east. It always has been a bit confusing not to know whether the referee's whistle was for time out or for the end of a period.

The Honorable Mr. Bing

"Sure, Star braid. One's my wife—the ol' woman. Just arrived—from San Francisco. Been out to visit her half sister."

"I didn't know you were married, Mr. Sawyer."

"Am I? You ought to see. Met her in Denver. Sparked two weeks, then got spliced. She's—she's—well, take a look at her, Bevy. She's first-class."

"I hope so," murmured Mr. Bing. "And who is the other lady?"

"Friend of Lil's. Slick article, too. A hustler. She's goin' in business with us and—say, Style, did you ask? Just pipe her once. But that ain't the word, either. My wife was always a good picker. And Lil herself was once a good business hustler. But I came along, and she laid off. Since I made that cash in Texas oil, Lil's been blossomin' out, an' I want to get her in with nice people. The kind of people you know."

Waves like those of a troubled ocean beat into Mr. Bing's brain.

"But I feel my own feet slipping that way, Mr. Sawyer. I don't know that I will have any friends left." Then he regretted that. Even Sawyer could have been less a cad.

"What's the matter, Bev? You look pale."

"I don't know," replied Mr. Bing fretfully, wishing the man would turn away so he could put on his pants. "What's the program? I hope it doesn't include me outside the honor of meeting your wife. I have another engagement."

"Break it, then," came from Sawyer. And Mr. Bing knew that he would—must. He was like a sheep being led to slaughter.

Mrs. Sawyer turned out to be not an old hut a very young woman, pretty at that. Indeed, she could have been, and perhaps was, under twenty-six, and looked as if she had suddenly come into something—a fortune. She was self-conscious as some brands of the newly rich always are, the novelty of her luck not yet worn off. But she was getting down to it, and presently would bud out even more extravagantly—as her sort generally do. Waiting on tables to waiting on a millionaire husband like Sawyer was no small accomplishment. But the flavor of the fruit and the scent of the flower, in her future case, were yet affairs shrouded in a mist of conjecture. As a man in his own world, Mr. Bing was keen in these things, and thought already he saw what the denouement would be for Lil and Sawyer. She was temporarily hypnotized by Sawyer's money, but even this early there was a look of disillusionment in her eyes. Money, after all, was a fine thing to have, but it didn't buy everything. Their honeymoon was really not yet over, but she had already been forced to revise her first impressions of her husband. The chance of incompatibility was so great that Lil was about to sour on the vine and take her revenge out on a Jazz Age. Her expensive clothes in the softness of their texture and colors added nothing softer to the fresh hardness of her Irish blue eyes. She had jazzed her way through like many others of her ilk, but she was sore on the world. The dreams of Jazzmania hadn't turned out right.

"Ma, this is Mr. Bing—ol' friend of mine," said Sawyer. "That over there, Mr. Bing, is Miss Banks. You can bank on Miss Banks. And if it wasn't for Ma, I'd make second love to Lu—Luella, she is."

Mr. Bing bowed to both, and Lu and Lil bowed to him. Miss Banks' bow was the most refined because it was a more successful imitation of swell people she had watched from a distance. She it was made a place for him in the back seat of the flashy car better described as very low-cut. Besides being a low-cut car, it was dressed in the most expensive grade of sheathe-gown leather. It glistened and radiated splendor. There was, in fact, perhaps no other car like it. The bright vermillion of its red wheels brought back in memory a Floradora girl in red silk stockings. It was not the kind of car that Mr. Bing's acquaintances rode about in even when they wanted to show off.

Miss Banks was as showy as the car. She was also a little ahead of Lil in her modern advancement. She was, however, a very familiar specimen of what an hysterical age can produce—has produced in the way of bob-haired ladies of thirty or over who would fool the public into thinking them flappers. Her features were cut like a cameo, and beauty parlors had given the cameo its pristine blush. Nothing "high bred" and sensitive, nothing spiritually quick about Lu; but still she was a marketable article with a high price tag. Even Mr. Bing was not so ancient and old-timey that he couldn't know that. He knew and saw the three as they were in one low bow. He also cultivated instant dislike for Lu's paint and inflexible mouth. He would not ever be able to persuade himself it would be an osculatory joy to taste those carmine lips. He turned and looked in another direction for relief.

No, he would never fancy Miss Banks much. She stirred up too many hornets in him. And he hoped she was married, and would let him alone. On the other hand, Miss Banks circulated an immediate readiness to take Mr. Bing on. She fully decided that she would take him on because he looked like a United States senator.

It was "Ma" who got talk to going.

"Brad says you are going in business with him, Mr. Bing. And soon as he said it we were crazy to see you. A woman ought to be interested in what her husband does, don't you think?"

"Yes," said Mr. Bing.

"Yes, women had better watch their husbands," put in Lu.

These right-off-the-reel confidential women—ugh! thought Mr. Bing to himself. Didn't realize it, but exposed every skeleton in their closets.

"Lu," said Lil, "you ought not rave like that. Mr. Bing will think you are sore for some reason."

"I beg pardon?" asked Mr. Bing, feeling cramped in his seat. "I didn't hear."

But the conversation changed. "Ma" was giving Mr. Bing the "once over." She arrived at the pleasing conclusion that he might be easily influenced because he was easily a back number.

"Mr. Bing, if you won't get mad, me and Lu could make a more modern man out of you. You are dignified enough, but you don't dress right. Luella, particularly, is up on those things. She used to be a modiste with a swell shop near the Antlers hotel in Colorado Springs."

"And I coined the kale!" informed Lu.

Mr. Bing was slow in understanding.

"If you will please pardon me," he said with a blush, "explain again, won't you?"

"Oh, there you go already! You shouldn't get your feelings hurt," chided "Ma." "I meant nothing but your own interests. The way you dress is all right, I guess, but you are behind the times. Nobody these days can afford to be behind the times."

"What is the matter with me?" asked Mr. Bing.

"Well," dipped in Lu, "what Lil means is, Mr. Bing, you keep too much on the soft pedal. The cut of that coat of yours, now—what do they call it, anyway?"

"It is supposed to be a cut-away, Miss Banks. I have no authority to say they have changed its name."

"But for notice you ought to wear things like Brad's," said "Ma" gently. "Brad has a lot of dash, and I made him what he is, didn't I, Brad?"

"Go to it, Ma! Ol' Bev will thank you in the end, too. That's what he needs, somebody to steer him right."

"Did you hear that, Mr. Bing?"

"Not to any enlightenment," answered Mr. Bing stiffly. "But who would you recommend as a tutor? For I suppose you think that is what I need—a social guide of some sort."

"Let Lu do it."

There it was again—Lu! thought Mr. Bing suspiciously to himself. They were laying some sort of trap for him to put his foot in. But he would fool them. Lu could turn her attentions to somebody else. "Miss Banks is kind, and no doubt very efficient," he said hesitatingly, "but I fear she would find me a stubborn pupil when it comes to taking on new ideas. Why let my shortcomings bother you ladies? I am sure your efforts would only lead to discouragement and despair. I can't be made over."

It was not possible to make Mr. Bing over, but that moment he would liked to have been made much smaller. For he saw more select acquaintances of his approaching in another car, and he slid down in his seat to hide himself. But, too late. He might only have imagined it but he could have sworn one of the women occupants had nodded to him maliciously. Possibly the negro chauffeur, whom he also knew, even grinned.

"Who were those swells, Bevy?" asked Sawyer.

"The—er—Randalls," murmured Mr. Bing.

"Swells, all right," agreed Miss Banks. "I know swells when I see them. The off lady saw my dog."

"I saw her looking," added Mrs. Sawyer. "But swells are hypocrites—you can't ever tell what they think. Deceitful!"

Of the two, Mr. Bing concluded Lil was the most honest because the most self-conscious when it came to recognizing her true social status. But Lu was different. She thought that aristocracy was a low-cut automobile and a bizarre dog, not forgetting her own classiness. Mr. Bing wished he had lied about the Randalls. He could have told them as easily that they were the Jones family, and that way been more considerate of the Randalls. But it seemed he never thought of the right thing at the right time any more. He was desperate and very preoccupied in thinking up some new excuse to escape from Sawyers car and Lu and Lil's company before more of his friends saw him. And Lu Banks and her Pekinese dog right there in the same seat with him! "My dear Sawyer," he exclaimed suddenly, "I forgot that at 10 o'clock I have an appointment with my dentist. So will you drop me off somewhere—anywhere—and I will try to screw up the courage to face that murderer. Must get myself fit, you know. Slept poorly last night because of that abominable tooth."

"Where's it?" asked Sawyer.

"The tooth?"

"No; that dentist's. What's his name?"

Thinking of a dentist twenty blocks away, and hoping his captors would liberate him on the spot, Mr. Bing said "Willis," and instantly could have cursed himself, only he never cursed.

"Willis!" exclaimed Sawyer. "He's the swellest there is, isn't he? I say always pick the swellest even if it's a dentist. Take you round there right now, Bingy! Want to see him myself for Lil," and Mr. Bing could have fainted. If he had not been a temperate man in his ways, he could have even broken his stick over Sawyer's head. He did not want to see Willis, and furthermore he owed Willis a dental bill of two years' standing. Willis, in fact, was the last man in Atlanta he wanted to see. What would he say to Willis? He meant to pay Willis out of his next month's check, now that he was enjoying a competence, but he didn't wish to fraternize. But perhaps Willis would be out, or very busy, or there would be a line of real tooth-sufferers ahead of him. He hoped the whole town had a sore tooth.

There was a still more disgusting side to the situation. He would rather that Willis pulled all his teeth just out of vengeance than have that dentist think he had brought him some moneyed though vulgar persons as a bribe. What he really must do was to see Bronson. Bronson, who had something against Sawyer, was the logical man. He should have confided in Bronson from the first. Besides that, Rosa Bronson was a fine young woman, and far too clever to lose as a friend. But if he at this late hour confided in Bronson even that would seem as if he was still playing for the favors of Mammon. Not as a worshiper, perhaps, but as a puppet, which was worse. He did the only thing he could do now because he could not get out of it without resorting to more lies—he would face Willis.

Early in the day as it still was, they found no crowd of sufferers warming Dr. Willis' chairs in the fashionably appointed waiting room where a pretty young woman presided as matron or something, and the famed Dr. Willis just coming in with a surprised and unbelieving expression on his face when he saw Mr. Bing.

"Hello, Beverly, what—"

"Let me see you privately a moment, Willis," hastened Mr. Bing, ushering the dentist into his own sanctum and closing the door behind him. "How's everything, Willis?"

"Fairly, Beverly, what—"

"I didn't come to settle my little bill just yet, and there's nothing wrong with my teeth, Willis," interrupted Mr. Bing. "It concerns that flashy trio in there. To get rid of them I said I had to go see my dentist, and it developed they wanted a dentist too. The man—the gentleman—Sawyer—his name—has money and wants to be stylish and his wife worked on. So if I have inadvertently brought you a patient it was unintentional. I hope you understand, my dear fellow."

"Oh, certainly, Beverly—and don't worry about what you owe me. I haven't rushed you for it, have I?"

"No," agreed Mr. Bing. "Nor have I rushed. But right soon we'll get to the hurdle now, though I didn't come to say that, either. I explained why I came, and those people out there are anxious to be seen anywhere where the gentry congregates. You thoroughly understand my position, I am sure, Willis?"

"Certainly, Beverly. Sure—"

"Then detain them here until I get away. To where does that door lead, old top?"

"Down an alley."

"That's good enough. I'll get back on Peachtree somewheres at the end of the alley, and you'd be a scoundrel to say anything, Willis!" ended Mr. Bing, disappearing through the alley door.

Not counting the coats, not looking one way or another to see if he was observed, he beat a hasty marathon down the alley.

Tea and Supper Dances To Feature Opera Week at Georgian Terrace

Social life will center during opera week in the festivities to be staged at the Georgian Terrace, at which time several tea and supper dances will be featured.

Tuesday afternoon, April 22 following the presentation of "Il Trovatore," will be the initial tea-dance of the season. The tables will be arranged on the terrace and the occasion will assemble several hundred guests.

On Thursday afternoon, April 24 the second tea-dance of the series will be given after the performance of "Rigoletto" with Lucrezia Bori in the leading role.

Gounod's opera "Faust," will be sung Saturday afternoon, April 26, and a tea-dance at the hotel will follow.

A supper-dance Saturday evening, will close the week of elaborate entertainments, following the double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana," in which Rosa Ponselle will sing, and "Pagliacci," featuring the lovely Lucrezia Bori.

These brilliant occasions will assemble many prominent and distinguished visitors, opera stars and members of Atlanta society.

Brilliant Reception Honors Inspector General of U. S. Army

The officers of the twenty-second infantry and those of the fourth corps area entertained at a brilliant reception at the Service club on Friday evening in honor of General Eli Helmick, inspector general of the United States army, who is in Fort McPherson making his annual inspection.

The club was elaborately decorated with many flags and quantities of spring flowers. The music was furnished by the twenty-second infantry band, and the event was attended by several hundred members of the army social circle and Atlanta society.

Receiving with Colonel Dwight W. Ryther and the honor guest were Major General and Mrs. David C. Shanks.

Mrs. Shanks was a striking figure in a gown of orchid georgette crepe combined with silver lace and brilliants.

Among other handsomely gowned women present was Mrs. Ralph Porter, who wore pale pink pussy willow taffeta combined with silver lace and embroidery.

Mrs. William H. Johnston wore an imported gown of black lace with a handsome rhinestone ornament.

Mrs. Benjamin Smith was beautifully gowned in black lace.

Mrs. A. R. Bolling was lovely in a gown of sunset taffeta trimmed with silver lace.

Mrs. Moor N. Falls' lovely costume was of blue velvet with silver lace.

Mrs. Melville S. Jarvis was an attractive figure in a gown of silver lace embroidered in brilliants.

Miss Georgia Pepper wore a handsome gown of green georgette beautifully embroidered in brilliants.

Dancing was the chief feature of the evening's entertainment. Several specially invited guests from out of town added interest to the brilliant occasion.

Woman's Board To Give Luncheon for Oglethorpe Girls

An elaborate luncheon will be given to the girls who have won letters on the basketball team of Oglethorpe university on Saturday, April 12, at the Capital City club at 2 o'clock.

The hostesses of the occasion will be the members of the girls' committee of the woman's board of Oglethorpe university. Mrs. Gordon Barnett, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Charles Conklin, co-chairman, are in charge of the affair.

A meeting of the committee was held at the home of Mrs. Conkin on Peachtree street Friday afternoon.

Plans for the luncheon were perfected at this time.

A delightful feature of the meeting was the address given by Dr. O. L. Hatcher, noted educator.

The boys and girls from the basketball team and the Players' club, of Oglethorpe, were honor guests at tea following the meeting.

Women Voters Make Drive.

Reports turned in to Miss Eleonore Raoul from the captains of the squads working in the membership drive of the Atlanta League of Women Voters show that for the past week squad M of the Eighth ward, Mrs. C. W. Harris, captain, is leading in the race for obtaining the most members.

Miss Raoul, as director, has divided the league into some 20 or more squads, each having a captain and six members. Mrs. Harris and the members of her squad have succeeded in getting a larger number of people to join the league than any other squad thus far. Reports vary each week, however.

Mrs. Harris, who lives at 71 East Eleventh street, is a splendid executive, and has done wonderful work for the league during the membership drive.

"I wish I could make all Atlanta understand that the league is open to every woman," said Mrs. Harris. "So many times my friends have said to me, 'I would like to join the League of Women Voters, but I haven't received an invitation!' The league is not an invitation affair. One dollar a year dues admits one to membership. The membership drive is an invitation sent to all Atlanta women. We want 1,000 new members, and there is room for every one who will join."

The members of Mrs. Harris' squad are Mrs. W. F. Trenarr, Mrs. B. T. Neal, Mrs. J. A. McMahone, Miss Aline Moon and Miss Louise Dryman.

Mrs. Leide Is Hostess to Visitors.

Mrs. Enrico Leide was hostess at a lovely musicale tea Friday afternoon at her home on Inman circle, the interesting affair complimenting Miss Claire Hannah and her house party guests, Misses Jane Gilmer, Sarah Jamison and Elizabeth Mather, of Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Leide's home was decorated with quantities of jonquils effectively arranged throughout the rooms in bowls, vases and baskets.

Tea was served from a beautifully appointed table in the dining room, holding in the center a low plateau of jonquils combined with Parma violets and ferns. Yellow candles in silver holders alternated with silver dishes filled with yellow mints.

Mrs. Leide was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Troup Howard, Mrs. James Logan, Mrs. Charles Dowman, Mrs. Charles S. Caffery and Mrs. Harry Poole.

The feature of the afternoon's entertainment was a delightful musical program rendered by a quartet of noted Atlanta artists, including Mrs. Charles Dowman, Mrs. W. N. Aiken, Byron Warner and Harry Pomar. The program consisted of songs, violin and piano solos.

Mrs. Leide received her guests wearing a lovely gown of white Georgette crepe trimmed in rhinestones.

Miss Rosebud Leide, daughter of the hostess, was attractively gowned in hand-embroidered orange crepe.

Tennessee Visitor Is Honor Guest.

Miss Elizabeth Martin, of Johnson City, Tenn., the guest of Mrs. John F. Rawls, Jr., was the central figure at the bridge-tea at which Mrs. Lynn Frederick Howard was hostess Friday afternoon at her home on Oakdale road.

In the rooms where the guests were received many spring blossoms from the gardens of the hostess were effectively arranged in silver bowls and baskets. Tea was served following the bridge game.

The guest of honor was presented with a piece of lingerie, winner of top score prize was given a Madeira towel, and a bonbon jar was the consolation.

Mrs. Howard wore a gown of black crepe, combined with sapphire blue crepe, and embroidered in chenille.

Mrs. S. G. Beers Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. S. G. Beers, of Taunton, Mass., who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Beers, was honor guest at the pretty luncheon given by Mrs. Charles Loridans Wednesday at her home on East Fifteenth street.

A profusion of daffodils and white hyacinths were used as decoration throughout the spacious rooms where the game was played.

Luncheon was served following the game at the individual tables.

Mrs. Loridans received her guests wearing gray Georgette, beaded in gray and green.

Mrs. H. W. Beers wore a coat dress of blue, trimmed in sand color.

Mrs. S. G. Beers was gowned in black embroidered crepe combined with white.

Miss Dickey Is Bridge Hostess.

Miss Athleen Dickey's bridge-tea on Friday afternoon, given at the Georgian Terrace hotel, was one of a number of lovely compliments paid to Miss Virginia Donnan during her visit to Miss Irene Thomas.

Mrs. I. B. Williams assisted Miss Dickey in entertaining.

The prizes were attractive French novelties.

Lovely spring flowers adorned the rooms where the game was played.

Miss Nell Brawner Chosen May Queen at Seminary

Miss Nell Brawner, attractive young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James N. Brawner, has been chosen queen for the annual May day fete at Washington seminary, which will be a beautiful occasion of the spring season.

Miss Brawner's maids of honor will be Misses Catherine Candler, Marion Wolfe, Virginia Dabney and Adeline Winston.

This is one of the outstanding features of the artistic program sponsored by Washington seminary during the school year and assembles a representative audience of Atlanta society, including parents of the students and many of the alumnae.

Another interesting event of the spring affairs will be the fashion show to be held Monday evening, April 14, in the school auditorium.

Four girls have been selected from each class to act as models and four loving cups have been donated to be presented to the girl from each class who are judged the most stylish.

A small admission will be charged, the proceeds to be given to the Alice Chandler Memorial library at the seminary.

The girls selected to represent the senior class are Misses Catherine Candler, Nell Brawner, Virginia Torrance and Yolanda Gwin.

Misses Bessie White, Pauline Gray, Marion Wolf and Nan Allen, of Buford, are the girls chosen from the junior class.

The sophomore class has as representatives Misses Virginia Dabney, Florence Eckford, Mary Lee Webb and Mary Harris.

Representing the freshman class are Misses Ruth Miller, Robert Harbour, Lottie Lawrence and Adeline Winston.

Dance To Be Given At Roseland.

A social event of Saturday evening will be an informal dance at the Roseland ball room, 217 Peachtree street, under the auspices of the Musicians' club. Dancing will be enjoyed from 9 to 12 o'clock, intermingled with several entertaining features. The dancing set of the city is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Are Entertained at Informal Parties

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarkson, of Chicago, are spending the week-end in Atlanta, en route from a trip to Cuba and Florida, where they have spent several weeks, and are at the Winecoff hotel.

Mr. Clarkson is prominently identified with national art circles and is connected with the Chicago Art Institute. He was among the distinguished guests at the luncheon given in honor of Erwin S. Barrie, of New York, manager of the Grand Central Art Galleries, by J. J. Haverty, well-known Atlantan and commissioner of art, on Friday at the Capital City club.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hinman entertained informally at dinner Friday evening at their home on Piedmont avenue, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson.

Miss Kate Edwards' informal tea Friday afternoon, at her home on East Fourth street, was another occasion at which Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson were central figures. Other informal parties will be given for them during their visit in Atlanta.

College Set Dance At Club de Vignt.

The Georgia Tech club of Georgia Tech will give their regular Saturday night dance at the Club De Vingt, Peachtree and Third streets. The fraternities at Tech, Emory and Oglethorpe and several hundred young ladies of the college set have been invited.

Mrs. Harry Norman will entertain with an evening bridge party at her home in honor of her guests, Mrs. C. M. Shuck and Mrs. Alfred Miller, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Christopher Gives Surprise Shower Tea

One of the most informal social events of Friday was the surprise shower tea given by Mrs. A. B. Christopher, at her home on Springdale road.

The honor guest of the occasion was Mrs. John M. Cooper, who recently lost her home by fire, and who was the recipient of a number of useful gifts brought by the guests.

The hostess received her guests wearing a gown of beige-colored crepe.

Mrs. Cooper wore a gown of black satin with wide-brimmed hat of black straw.

Thirty close friends of the honor guest were invited.

Atlanta Artists Will Assist in Emory Concert

Four talented Atlanta artists will assist the Emory university orchestra in its regular monthly concert in the university auditorium at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Dvorak's beautiful trio for violin, cello and piano will be rendered by a trio consisting of Alex Keese, violin; Edward Richter, cello, and Mrs. Charles Dowman, pianist. Mr. Keese, of the Howard orchestra; Mr. Richter, of the Metropolitan orchestra, and Mrs. Dowman are three of Atlanta's most accomplished musicians.

The instrumental numbers will be interspersed with vocal solos by Mrs. Alex Keese, charming and popular soprano.

For the orchestra's part of the program, Dr. M. H. Dewey, director, has arranged several of the most pretentious numbers in the history of the organization. The opening number will be the Orchestra Suite, by Grieg, and the feature selection will be "Sigurd Josalfar," including (a) Introduction, (b) Intermezzo, "Borghild's Dream," and (c) Triumphal March.

On Saturday, April 12, the orchestra, assisted by the glee club, will appear in Rome, Ga.

Oglethorpe Student Writes Song

Miss Thelma Doyle, talented young student of Oglethorpe university, who has written the music to the song "Nothing Matters," which will be sung in the playlet "By Sundown," to be produced April 11, at the Atlanta Woman's club by the Oglethorpe Players' club. Miss Lucy Pairo wrote the play which is a fantasy.

SMALL TRUTHS.

Boil the new clothespins and make them last twice as long.

Clean your carpet-sweeper brush in a bath of gasoline and see how well it works.

Flowers will keep much better if all leaves that would be under water in a vase are stripped from the stem before arranging.

A lump of orris root in the boiler on washday will give a lovely fragrant odor to the clothes, lasting even after they are ironed.

AFTER CLEANING.

After cleaning clothing with gasoline, the clothes should be aired for several hours and then placed in a warm place where the heat will take away any of the unpleasant odor that may remain.

Mrs. Ashby To Lecture.

"The Power in Prayer to Accomplish," will be the subject of a helpful and interesting lecture to be given by Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Carnegie library.

Formulas and specifics for living life problems with prayer, faith and patience will be interpreted. Both men and women who are interested are invited to attend this meeting.

The Half-Time Wife

BY VIOLET DARE

VI.—A Delicate Situation.

Suzanne wanted to talk to her husband about Dick's infatuation for the little dancer; he had had so much more experience than she, would know so much better how to handle the situation. But there seemed to be no opportunity. They were giving a large, formal dinner that evening, and taking their guests to a dance at the Haynes' afterward. He would be too tired when they came home to discuss anything perplexing with her. And the next day he would be off to business early; there would be no chance then. The day itself would be hopeless; she never intruded on his office hours, unless he made an engagement with her.

There was Duncan Hale, of course; she might talk things over with him; though it was a family matter that she was worried about. Duncan was such an old friend, and such a valued one, that she felt that it would not be amiss to talk with him. Yet she hesitated.

"Oh, well," she reflected, as she donned the blue and silver gown that she was to wear that evening. "It isn't really serious yet. There'll be plenty of time to talk to Geoff about things."

Yet, there might not be! Dick was so hot-headed, so infatuated with the little dancer, that if she was willing to elope with him he'd be quite sure break Geoffrey's heart, she told herself; he had brought his nephews up so carefully, had tried so hard to give them every possible advantage. He would be severe with the boy, too, even though it hurt him.

"You are a daring hostess," he told her

The drawing-rooms of the Atwood home were unusually beautiful that evening; Suzanne had arranged the flowers herself, and although snow flew outside, tulips and jonquils everywhere through the rooms gave an illusion of springtime.

"It's very lovely, my dear," Geoffrey told her, taking her hands in his as she paused beside him at the foot of the great staircase. "Did you arrange the place cards?"

"Yes; that is, I put them in their proper order and gave them to Hankins with a list," she answered.

"But I wanted you to place them on the table yourself," he replied, a frown appearing between his steel-gray eyes. "It is most important that there be no mistake this evening; the situation between Caldwell and Senator Graham is a delicate one, and I'm hoping to adjust it so that certain things will result. They must not sit near each other, and neither must their wives. Just run into the dining-room, won't you—"

But arriving guests cut his sentence short. Suzanne felt uneasy. Of course the place cards would be all right—yet what if they weren't! She tried to slip away to the dining room a few moments later, but there was no opportunity. And when at last dinner was announced she was so worried that she felt sure the butler had made a mistake and put the wrong people next each other.

She glanced down the table; everything seemed to be all right. Again—and her heart sank. For Hiram J. Caldwell and Senator Graham had been so placed that only one lone woman sat between them!

"But I don't see how it could have happened," Suzanne reflected as she took her seat. There had been a Mr. Calkins—she looked carefully; yes, there he was, with the woman she had intended for Mr. Caldwell's dinner partner. In glancing through the cards and arranging them she must have confused the two names, glancing only at the first syllables. Geoff would be wild.

She looked down to the other end of the table, tried to meet his eye, but he was devoting himself to the woman he had taken in to dinner. Suzanne sighed. Geoff would think her both stupid and careless!

To her the dinner seemed interminable; she was grateful when at last she could rise and leave the room. Her duties as hostess were still new to her; she quite forgot when the time came that it was she who must give the signal, and a sharp glance from her husband reminded her.

Later, in the drawing room, Caldwell came over to the chair where she sat.

"You are a very daring hostess, Mrs. Atwood," he said. "Permit me to congratulate you."

"But—I—I don't understand," she faltered.

"Your husband would never have dared attempt what you accomplished this evening," he told her. "Senator Graham and I—but your husband can explain more satisfactorily than I can. Perhaps you need no explanation!"

Suzanne, bewildered, glanced at Geoff. He was smiling, and talking with Graham. Then somehow, amazingly, her carelessness had not been so dreadful in its consequences! She was eager to talk with Geoff alone, and find out what had happened.

HAD TO LET HOUSEWORK GO

So Ill Husband had to do the Work. Completely Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana.—"I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down pains. I was so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the shop, and then came home and helped me at night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help but to be operated upon, and of course that would cost us a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the factory and one night he stopped at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. DORA OSBORNE, 430 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

COTTON GROWERS TO GET $1,900,000

Representing an advance of 5 cents per pound on cotton turned over to the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association, farmer members of that body will receive checks aggregating $1,900,000, it was stated Friday by President J. E. Conwell, of the association.

Advances made previously this season, said Mr. Conwell, total $6,500,000, and represent payment at the rate of 20 cents per pound. Final payments, covering the difference between the amount already advanced and the amount realized on the cotton, will be made at the end of the cotton year.

Financial Condition Excellent.

President Conwell, in a statement given out simultaneously with the announcement, said that the financial condition and credit of the association were excellent and that the present distribution had been made after a careful discussion of marketing conditions by the board of directors. He reminded of the activities of speculators which had pulled down the price of cotton, compelling the board to be conservative in making advances, but that the present payment is made knowing that the farmer members need the money, many of them, to meet obligations and to buy fertilizer and other supplies for the 1924 crop.

Mr. Conwell's formal statement follows:

As all familiar with cooperative marketing know, the members of this, as well as of other cooperatives, have signed similar contracts and this contract is the basis of all of our operations. One of its fundamental provisions is that the directors of the association shall market, gradually and orderly, the cotton of all pools during the entire season, thus insuring each member grower the average price for his cotton.

Carried Out Contract.

We have carried out the contract, and the recent experiences of all cotton growers, as well as allied business interests, demonstrates to my mind more than ever the soundness and the necessity of the cotton producers and those dependent on cotton adopting the cooperative plan for marketing all our cotton.

It gives us much hope, too, to know that our cotton growers, as evidenced by the new contracts we are daily receiving, and our bankers and business men, are coming to accept cooperative marketing as sound and established business in the south. I have just received a letter from a middle Georgia banker who has customers who sold at various prices all during the season and customers, as well, who have not sold to date. His experience with cooperative marketing and with those of his customers who have sold individually, convinces him of the merit and soundness of selling cotton cooperatively, for he says: "We appreciate the fact that your organization has done much for this section and we take pleasure in recommending the association to our customers. It is our intention this year to have all who give crop mortgages be members of your organization."

Disregard Attacks.

This letter, coming from a banker of Cochran, Ga., is only typical of the feeling and conviction of bankers, fertilizer men and business men in all sections of the state, as evidenced by scores and scores of letters that they have written to this office stating that from now on they will cooperate with our members and this association, when such has not been the case heretofore.

As the cooperatives increase for themselves the confidence of their membership and the business world it gives us an impregnable position. We are not disappointed in the least with the attacks being made on cooperative marketing by a few who either lack information or have a selfish interest to gratify.

Appreciate Cooperation.

We invite any and all of our members, when it is possible for them to do so, to visit this office to inquire into the workings of the marketing of their cotton and obtain any information they desire. We have been especially pleased with the large numbers that have recently visited the offices, mainly to assure the management of their gratification of the progress being made and of their more than ever determination to support this association which is working out a system that not only will sell its members' cotton this year, but from year to year, in a businesslike manner, primarily for the profit of the producer and for the good generally of all of our people.

While I am speaking a little but lengthily, I must say further, we appreciate the cooperation of our entire membership and their fighting spirit for the cooperative system that will sooner or later give us fair prices for the cotton that we produce.

To Double Handlings.

"We appreciate no less the splendid support of those scores and scores of unselfish business men in all sections of this state that have cast their lot with the cooperative system and made the work of this association possible. It is enough to encourage the discouraged and to give hope to the hopeless.

The association will handle possibly twice as much of the 1923 crop as it did of the 1922 crop, it is stated, notwithstanding that Georgia produced only about 600,000 bales in 1923 as against more than 700,000 in 1922. The total delivery in 1922 was somewhat greater than one half of the delivery in 1923, but this is accounted for in the fact that when the association was chartered in 1922, many of the members had on hand "old" cotton produced as far back as 1918. Under the terms of the contract, all of this was delivered to the association during the season 1922, and the sum total of it amounted to several thousand bales, as evidenced by the records of the association.

Speculators' Attack Fails.

Letters pouring into the association from all sections of the state and on file at the offices, show conclusively, it is stated, that the members are convinced that an effort has been made recently to break up the cotton cooperatives, which, according to those in position to know, has served to arouse among the members and even among non-members, the feeling that cotton speculators realize that the growth and success of cooperative marketing means better and more stabilized prices for cotton and a continued growth for all the cooperative marketing associations.

No better illustration of this fact can be pointed out than the new contracts being received, some of the members delivering large amounts of cotton to be placed in separate pools from the 1923 pools which closed on March 15, or else to go into the 1924 pools.

BODY OF WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK LIES UNCLAIMED

Unidentified and unmourned the body of the woman victim of a heavy motor truck Friday lay in the undertaking parlors of Harry G. Poole while detectives combed the city for relatives or friends.

She was struck down at Auburn and Piedmont avenues Thursday evening by a truck driven by a negro, Ben Milner, who was arrested by Call Officers Walter A. Goode and Fred Bullard on a charge of reckless driving.

Apparently 40 years of age, the woman is believed to have been employed as a seamstress, a thimble and other sewing material being found in her pocketbook, which also contained a knife and $5.97 in money.

Nothing, however, was found in the pocketbook or about the body or in the clothing to indicate her identity. She died from her injuries about 3 o'clock Friday morning in the Grady hospital.

New Stars Will Sing in Atlanta In Light Opera

Opportunity for Atlanta music lovers to hear the great opera stars of the Chicago Opera company, and other organizations, in addition to the galaxy of singers coming here annually in the Metropolitan cast, is forecast in the definite organization Friday of the Atlanta Light Opera association, which plans to present performances each summer in a huge stadium to be erected in a natural amphitheater at Lakewood.

The association is headed by Howard Candler as president. The other officers are Mell R. Wilkinson, vice president; Lucian York, vice president; V. H. Kriegshaber, vice president; Robert S. Parker, attorney and secretary, and C. B. Bidwell, business manager.

Board of Directors.

The present board of directors is composed of H. M. Atkinson, Ivan S. Allen, C. B. Bidwell, John S. Cohen, Howard Candler, Lucian York, W. O. Foote, Clark Howell, Sr., V. H. Kriegshaber, Oscar Mills, James B. Nevin, F. J. Paxon, Robert S. Parker, W. L. Peel and Mell R. Wilkinson.

Establishing the movement along the same lines as those adopted by St. Louis, Cincinnati, and other cities, which present for several weeks each year the greatest opera singers who at that period of the year are on tour in concert, the local organization expects to guarantee to music lovers of Georgia and the south opportunity to hear all of the world's greatest singers and musical organizations.

Success in Other Cities.

The great success of the Cincinnati, St. Louis and Detroit programs each year has been pointed to as one of the best assurances of local success. Two years ago the Cincinnati light opera association presented the celebrated dramatic soprano, Rosa Raisa, prima donna of the Chicago Opera company, with the most overwhelming success know in that city's musical history. Madame Raisa sang here in concert last October.

That the light opera seasons will be held is considered assured because of the universal support of prominent men given the movement. Officers and directors are the men who largely made possible the seasons of Metropolitan Grand Opera here. Colonel Peel, as president of the Atlanta Music Festival association, and Mr. Bidwell, as its treasurer, have headed the grand opera movement here since its inception.

Ask for $40,000.

Wednesday a number of the above named sponsors of the light opera movement appeared before the Fulton county commissioners to urge the appropriation of $40,000 with which to erect the stadium. The county board referred the matter to its finance committee, with power to act. Early action by the commission is expected. Only the bare cost of the stadium was expected to be borne by the county, as organization and incidental expenses are to be borne by the citizens of Atlanta who have urged the light opera seasons, in accordance with similar annual events in other cities.

The officers and directors are making plans to offer a 1924 season, if necessary funds for building the stadium are raised in time. The movement is expected to be a financial asset, funds derived to go into the treasury of the Southeastern Fair association. Other cities have netted large funds for artistic events from the light opera seasons, sponsors for the movement here said.

"Blossom Time" Star Refuses To Confirm Engagement Report

Refusal to confirm the report that she and William Vernon McMillan, Jr., Atlanta real estate man and former city golf champion, are to be married came Friday night from Miss Margaret Merle, the "Mitzi" of the "Blossom Time" show, in advices received here from Savannah, notwithstanding the fact that a marriage license was issued Vernon McMillan, Jr., 28, and Miss Merle Smithers, 27, in Birmingham on March 22, at which time the "Blossom Time" show was playing in Birmingham.

The dispatch was to the effect that Miss Smithers, whose stage name is Margaret Merle, "said Mr. McMillan and his mother were traveling with her as friends." The "Blossom Time" company left Savannah for Charleston Friday at noon.

UNIFORM CHARGES ON FREIGHT ASKED

Charles Barham, chairman of the Southern Freight association, representing all railroads in the south, has filed with the Georgia public service commission a tariff on freights carrying uniform reconsigning and diversion rules and charges.

Mr. Barham states in his petition that these rules and charges are the result of a conference between a committee representing carriers, and the National Industrial Traffic league, and where carriers' and shippers' representatives found themselves unable to agree, the disputed point was arbitrated by R. V. Pitt, assistant director of traffic of the interstate commerce commission.

The Georgia public service commission has never adopted any reconsigning and diversion rules and charges for uniform application to all carriers. Under rules of the commission, carriers have been permitted to publish their own rules and charges subject to the commission's approval. The Barham petition seeks to make uniform rules and charges all over Georgia and, he states, he has also filed similar petitions with all other southern state commissions.

E. M. Price, rate expert of the Georgia commission, is analyzing the petition. He said it will be submitted to the commission at its next meeting.

U. C. V. COMMANDER DIES AT POULAN HOME

News has been received in Atlanta of the death in Poulan, Ga., Thursday of Major Peter Pelham. Major Pelham was 86 years of age and was at one time a citizen of Atlanta and Decatur.

He was commander of Camp 1149 U. C. V. for more than 20 years, and was superintendent of the Worth county Sunday school association for many years.

He is survived by his widow; one son, Joseph Pelham, of Louisville, Ky.; two daughters, Mrs. J. H. Graves, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. J. D. Hank, of Richmond, Va.

MEMBERSHIP PRIZE WON BY MRS. SMITH

The chairman's prize in the recent membership drive staged by the women's committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce was awarded to Mrs. Marie V. Smith, whose five teams obtained more members than a similar number of opposing teams, it was announced Friday by Miss Fannie Lee Bettis, chairman of the publicity department. The team prize went to Miss Laurie Allen, captain of the winning team.

SOUTH PRYOR CHURCH GETS NEW MINISTER

Evangelist J. H. McBroom, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., has accepted a call to the South Pryor Street Church of Christ. Mr. McBroom is an evangelist of wide experience and unusual ability. In addition to his work as a minister, he is prominently connected in educational circles, being a member of the board of trustees of Burritt college, Spencer, Tenn. He will begin his ministry for the Pryor street church tomorrow.

A REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Birmingham Lady Suffered a Long Time Before Finally Taking Cardui and Enjoying "First Health in Years."

Birmingham, Ala.—Before her recent remarkable recovery, Mrs. Florence Moore, 2309 Thirty-third avenue, North, this city, was frequently so ill and weak that she had to sit down while doing her housework.

"For many years I suffered with female trouble of every description," says Mrs. Moore. "I was told an operation was necessary to save my life. At times I was not able to stand on my feet. I have cooked many a meal sitting, while my husband and children handed me things with which to do it. . .

"I had given up all hope of ever being well again. . . It is a sight what women will suffer before they will listen to the advice of others.

"Several of my friends had taken Cardui and been benefited by it. They told me about it, but I thought my case was hopeless. Finally I told my husband to get me some Cardui and I began to take it. After I had taken the first bottle I saw that I was improving. I took eleven bottles at that time before I was cured, but as it was the first health I had had for years I was thankful to do it.

Write One of Ten Best Titles For This and Win a Snuggle Pup

SNUGGLE FROLIC NO. 6.

Wright a Title for This Picture.

To win one of the 10 Snuggle Pups being given away in today's Snuggle Pup frolic all you have to do is write one of the 10 best titles for this funny picture of Dumbell, Jr., who feels so chesty that he wants to go out and fight a poodle. You'll that country. It is also the purpose of the department to send with the shipment a qualified investigator who will look into the possibilities of a market for all of Alberta's farm products.
see that Dumbell, Jr., ran into something far different from a poodle, though.

For instance, you might call it "The Tale of a Tail That Wagged a Mean Hound," or "Dumbell Got the Tail Light Stop Signal Just in Time." Do your best with this picture. Those aren't very good. You can do much better.

After you have thought up your title, write it in the space left above the cartoon and then write your name, age and full address in the space just above here for it. Then clip out the whole thing and mail it to Mother Snuggle, The Constitution, Atlanta.

All answers from boys and girls living in Atlanta and within 50 miles of here have until 6 o'clock Sunday night to get to The Constitution. Don't worry about its not getting here in time if you mail it late Saturday, for The Constitution gets mail on Sunday just as it does every other day.

Boys and girls living more than 50 miles from Atlanta have until 6 o'clock Monday night to get their answers in and the award will be announced Wednesday in The Constitution.

"So This Is London."

(At the Atlanta Theater.)

The final performances of the sensationally successful George M. Cohan comedy production, "So This Is London," will take place at the Atlanta theater today, when matinee and night performances will be given. This will bring the regular season to a triumphant close. Of all the comedy productions seen here this season, no one has created a more profound impression than "So This Is London."

"The Miracle Man."

(At the Lyric.)

Only this afternoon and tonight Atlantans will have opportunity to see the Lyric Players in "The Miracle Man," the greatest dramatic triumph of George M. Cohan's career. It is a thrilling story of the power of faith. Next week "Sinners," by Owen Davis, which William A. Brady picked as a starring vehicle for Alice Brady at his New York playhouse, will be presented.

Keith's Vaudeville.

(At Keith's Forsyth.)

Feats of remarkable juggling and trickery are being offered as the headlining feature of the excellent vaudeville bill at Keith's Forsyth theater the last part of this week as only Orientals can perform them in the act of the Hi Jung troupe, of faraway Pekin.

Also the bill includes Sid Lewis, "The Original Nut" comedian in a fast line of patter and songs. Stella Tracey and Carl McBride, musical comedy favorites have some dancing features in their "Bits of Exclusiveness."

A Pathe newsreel and an installment of Aesop's Fables also are included.

"The Fighting Coward."

(At the Howard.)

"The Fighting Coward," the Paramount picture featuring Ernest Torrence, Mary Astor, Cullen Landis, Phyllis Haver and Noah Beery, will be shown at the Howard the last times today. Here is a picture that is a delicious satire on the old south. Some of the most amusing situations ever seen on a screen are to be found in "The Fighting Coward," adapted from Booth Tarkington's famous stage success "Magnolia."

The overture by the enlarged Howard Symphony orchestra is "Martha," Buel B. Risinger conducting.

"Woman to Woman."

(At the Rialto.)

"Woman to Woman," starring the beautiful Betty Compson at the Rialto theater. Miss Compson has a glorious role and she plays it magnificently. As the little dancer she is grace personified, and as a woman who loves much, and for that love sacrifices all, she reaches divine heights.

CLARKSTON LODGE LAYS CORNERSTONE FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Clarkston, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) Despite a steady rain here at 2 o'clock today more than 150 persons attended the cornerstone laying ceremonies of the new high school building. James D. Hamrick, of Carrollton, grand master of Georgia Masons, assisted by the Clarkston lodge, No. 492, F. and A. M., laid the stone.

George M. Napier, who was to have delivered the address, was unable to attend and J. F. McLendon, chairman of the board of trustees of the Clarkston system, delivered a short address. The Lithonia band was present, but inclemency prevented committee arrangements being carried out.

A history of Clarkston, by Mrs. H. A. Jolly, oldest living citizen; a New Testament, a copy of The DeKalb New Era and rolls of the students and instructors of the Clarkston High school, the Methodist and Baptist churches and the Clarkston lodge Masons were placed in the stone.

The new structure is said to be one of the most modern in the county. It will cost more than $25,000 when completed. A special feature of the building is the large auditorium, which has a specially constructed stage.

Convicted of Slaying, Man Says He Escaped From Alpharetta Gang

Knoxville, Ga., April 4.—J. H. Sanders, convicted here today of the charge of manslaughter for the killing of Lewis Harrison, December 29, after being sentenced to serve 15 to 20 years, informed the court that he is an escaped convict from Alpharetta, Ga., where he said he was serving a 20-year sentence under the name of Gans. He did not state the nature of the crime, but he asked to be returned to that county in north Georgia to complete his service.

The killing of Harrison occurred in the Deep creek section of Crawford county, Harrison being struck down with his own pistol in the hands of Sanders, who disarmed him in a struggle. The men were ringing broomstraws and quarreled over a woman, according to the evidence disclosed during the trial.

BEDFORD L. PATTERSON DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Lawrenceville, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Bedford L. Patterson, 66, one of the best known citizens of Lawrenceville, died suddenly of heart failure Friday afternoon at his home. Mr. Patterson was a native of Gwinnett county, being a son of the late James M. Patterson, ex-sheriff of Gwinnett county and a Confederate veteran. He is survived by one member of a family of 12 children.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church and was grand marshal of the Masonic grand lodge of Georgia. He was senior grand deacon of the grand lodge for several years, and had held the post of grand marshal for a number of years. He was also a past master of Lawrenceville lodge No. 131 and past high priest of Mount Vernon chapter No. 39.

Funeral services will be held here Sunday at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Grand Master James D. Hamrick, of Carrollton, assisted by other grand lodge officers.

Mr. Patterson is survived by his widow, who was Miss Martha Louise Ross before their marriage 37 years ago; a brother, Ed Patterson, of Lawrenceville, and a number of nephews and nieces.

He was an ex-councilman of the city of Lawrenceville and at the time of his death was chairman of the democratic executive committee of Gwinnett county.

DIXIE HIGHWAY GOOD, AUTO TOURISTS SAY

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) Tourists coming north on the central Dixie highway from Jacksonville by Waycross report this route in excellent condition. Bridges which have been under construction in Ware and Irwin counties are reported finished and detours at these places discontinued. North of here, by Abbeville, Hawkinsville to Macon, the route is in better condition than ever, the concrete bridges in Pulaski county, which necessitated detours during the past year, being finished and the entire route open to tourists. The Central Dixie Highway association is backing a movement to have the roads through Irwin and Ben Hill counties paved this summer.

NEGRO WOMAN NAMED TO REPUBLICAN MEET

Savannah, Ga., April 4.—"This is the first time Georgia has had a republican woman appointed, and the first time in the history of the country that a negro committeewoman was authorized to take a seat in the national convention," Mamie Williams, republican committeewoman, said last night after her return from the state convention in Atlanta. The appointment was made in recognition of her services, Henry Lincoln Johnson and the others agreeing no more indetatigable worker was to be found in the party, she added.

"I have been in politics since women received the franchise," she continued.

"During the campaign for Harding in 1920, I was in charge of the entire negro women voters of the state, getting 40,000 of them to the polls to vote for Harding."

As former president of the state federation of negro women, and as chairman of the citizenship committee of the national federation her duties carried her into all the southeastern states, and during the last presidential campaign she visited every county in the state, lining up voters, holding meetings, and assisting in every way possible. In 1920 she was among those upon the famous front porch of the Harding home in Marion, Ohio, with representatives from every section of the country.

Mamie Williams is the widow of George S. Williams, formerly a post office employee. She seems a middle aged woman, speaks clearly and precisely, with an accent contracted elsewhere than in the tidewater country, although she protested Savannah is her home, "from generation to generation." Further than this she would not go into her private life.

A., B. & A. Past Danger Kiwanians Are Told At Waycross Meeting

Waycross, Ga., April 4.—Receiver B. L. Bugg, of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad company, today delivered an address to the Waycross Kiwanis club at the weekly luncheon.

Mr. Bugg discussed in detail many of the phases of railroad operation, and stated that at the present time the A., B. and A. is on the upgrade, and that within another year he expects to see the company balance receipts with expenditures. He stated that the road had passed the stage where there was a danger of scrapping the road, and that this year the road met all expenditures with the exception of taxes.

The speaker, with the aid of illustrated charts and pictures, demonstrated many of the problems of railroad operation, and stated that at the present time it would be impossible to reduce freight rates without ruining the railroads of the country.

Other members of the A., B. and A. who were guests at the club today were C. E. Brower, general superintendent; A. H. Hill, division freight agent; A. D. Daniel, passenger traffic manager; J. B. Cason, freight agent at Waycross, and G. W. Kemp, secretary to Mr. Bugg.

BECAUSE SHE SAID HE WAS NO GOOD, NEGRO SLAYS MATE

Thomasville, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Just because she told her husband that he was no account and generally worthless, Mattie Hodges, a negro woman, was shot and killed by him. The woman, who was taken to the city hospital, where she lived several hours after being shot, said that her husband shot her, and she pretended she was dead for fear he would shoot again. He left the house and has not been found.

NEGROES COME HOME

Prodigals Return to Deserted Farm Lands.

Sparta, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—A number of Hancock county negroes, who went north and east during the past two years, are returning home. Cold weather is blamed for their return south. Many of them find the same farms they left ready to receive them.

ATHENS ROTARIANS ARE HOSTS AT MEET

Athens, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—Fifteen northeast Georgia towns "looked in" on Athens Wednesday when prominent business and professional men of those cities were guests of the Rotary club.

The meeting was arranged by Cuyler Trussell, president-elect of the Rotary club, who was chairman of the committee in charge of program. Comer, Monroe, Bishop, Hartwell, Jefferson, Winterville, Danielsville, Commerce, Madison, Jefferson, Maxeys, Carlton, Watkinsville and Winder were represented at the meeting.

Missionary Women To Hold 15th Meet At Atlanta Church

Griffin, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The fifteenth annual meeting of the Methodist Woman's Missionary society of the north Georgia conference will be held at the Druid Hills Methodist church, of Atlanta, it was decided at the final sessions of the fourteenth annual meeting here today. The time for the meeting has not been set.

Devotional service Thursday evening was led by Mrs. J. N. McEachern. "Following Our Boxes With Stereopticon," by Mrs. Wallace Rogers was also a feature of the evening service.

Many reports from the various committees of the conference and unfinished business was taken up and disposed of during the day. The devotional during the morning was led by Mrs. Frank H. Atlee.

After the business meeting adjourned Friday shortly afternoon, delegates were guests of the local south side mission study circle at a luncheon served at the church. Mrs. W. H. Wheaton was chairman of the luncheon committee.

Officers are elected bi-annually but Mrs. Ruth Dallis Hill, of LaGrange, was elected corresponding secretary to replace the former officer who had resigned.

Change in Time Made on Answers To Pup Frolics

Mother Snuggle, the mamma of all the little Snuggle Pups being given away by The Constitution at the rate of 10 a day to all the winners of the Snuggle Pup frolics, has received some letters the last few days that were downright pitiful.

The letters came from little boys and girls who want Snuggle Pups, oh, so badly, but who can't get their answers to the frolics into The Constitution office in the 36 hours allowed in the first contests. They don't get their Constitution before breakfast the way the boys and girls of Atlanta do, and then they haven't time to work them out and get them in the mail to get to Mother Snuggle the evening of the next day.

And that's the reason Wednesday's winners aren't announced this morning. Mother Snuggle has devised a means of helping the little country boys and girls come in for their share of her cuddly, snuggly pups. All boys and girls in Atlanta or living within 50 miles of Atlanta must have their answers in. The Constitution office at 6 o'clock the evening of the day following publication of a frolic, but the boys and girls living more than 50 miles from Atlanta will have until the following day at 6 o'clock.

For instance, answers from children within 50 miles of Atlanta must have their answers in for today's frolic by 6 o'clock Sunday evening. When their answers arrive they will be judged, beginning at 6 o'clock Sunday night. But the boys and girls more than 50 miles will be considered for prizes in today's contest if they get their answers in by 6 o'clock Monday evening. That makes it fair for both the boys and girls of Atlanta and surrounding towns and the far away boys and girls, too.

Circus Brings Joy to Kids; Parade Is Scheduled Today

BY RALPH T. JONES.

The kids all said we had to see the circus. This morning they're determined to come down and see the parade. Rainy weather prevented the parade Friday but the management of Sparks circus told us there's going to be a parade Saturday morning, leaving the show grounds at Spiller's park promptly at ten, rain or shine. They're going to march all round the town to satisfy the youngsters, and they defy the weather man to stop it.

So that's that.

This circus, which, by reason of the fact that it makes winter quarters in Macon, is peculiarly a Georgia affair, is a circus after the heart. It's big enough to thrill, but it isn't so big that you can't take in all that's going on. These performances with seven rings and half a dozen platforms all occupied at the same time are confusing, you know, and you always feel disappointed that you didn't take the seats at the other end where your friends saw that thingumabob thing with the girls doing whoosits on it.

You See Everything.

With Sparks show its different, however. Get a middle seat and you needn't miss anything. True, there are three rings, but by judicious division of your attention you can enjoy all that's going on and miss nothing. After all, the expression a "three ring circus," means the utmost in amusement, and anything more than that is demanding too much of the audience's necks, in the twisting way.

The program Sparks puts on is well-balanced and varied enough for anyone, but, if any one feature stands out as supreme, it is the trained animal acts. There are, as memory serves, trained bears, elephants, lions, tigers, seals, hogs, monkeys, horses, ponies, pigeons and even llamas—if that's how you spell it. You know, those things that look like a cross between a goat and a camel. Oh, yes, there are trained dogs and ostriches, too. The bigger animals once or twice seemed tempted to chew up a trainer or so, but the evening passed off without casualties and it just added another thrill to see the lions show their teeth and roar a few roars.

Then there are aerial acts, equestrian acts, tumblers, acrobats, strong men, trapeze artists, rope walkers, balancers galore. There is a lady who sings well enough to be pleasing and strong enough to fill the big top with her voice. She is the lady of the trained pigeons. That's an unusual feature for a circus.

An Unusual Act.

Trained pigs, when you think of it, is another rare sort of a performance. And a seal who plays "America" without a trainer at his nose to point out the keys. A seal who says "Mamma" if you want him to.

Glancing over the program, in order to give a little personal mention where excellent performance demands it, let's give a good credit mark first to Franz Woska for his trained polar bears and Great Dane dogs, for his performing tigers as well. Then another medal to Steve Battey for the trained lions.

The Ballerini troupe of Spanish riders are some more who deserve a decoration. Another is Prince Sakato for his Japanese foot slide. Miss Bessie Harvey has already been mentioned for her singing and her pigeons.

Naida Miller deserves a special paragraph for her dancing on the tight wire. Here it is.

Professor Ernest Kloske deserves two special paragraphs for his 16 trained horses) but one is all space allows. (Note: The kids said this was the best part of the show.)

Stars in the Air.

The Three Walters were the stars of the aerial work on the bars.

Then there were the dancing, high school horses. And clowns galore, funny all the time. And the ladies who hung by their teeth—you know the stunt—named Kulla York and Babe Pope.

You see, it's a regular circus. It's two years, almost, since Atlanta saw the big tops and you'll make no mistake by seeing this one. See if you can't find a youngster or two as an excuse. Take 'em along either this afternoon or tonight, and you'll have a big top time, or you're not human.

For it's all there. Peanuts, elephants, popcorn, monkeys, pink lemonade, lions, sawdust, clowns. The kid'll enjoy it. So will you.

More Women Voters ThanMen in 4 Years, Speaker Predicts

Within four years women voters will outnumber the men, it was predicted by Mrs. William Taylor, committee member of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, at a meeting of that organization Friday. She stated that a larger number of women annually take advantage of the franchise, while the number of male voters is apparently decreasing.

The proposed school merger and tax increase were discussed at the meeting, held under auspices of the league's committee of efficiency. Charles Wilkins, Dr. E. L. Awtry, J. R. Blachman and Frank Weldon participated in a debate on the school merger question.

A study program which has been outlined for the league also was discussed. Members have been requested to study the presidential primary and the legislative body's actions, Mrs. Taylor said.

LOCAL ENGINEERS HEAR C. E. SKINNER IN TALK FRIDAY

C. E. Skinner, head of the research department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, of Pittsburgh, was principal speaker Friday night at a special meeting of the American Society of Electrical Engineers and affiliated organizations at the Chamber of Commerce assembly hall. In the absence from the city of Chairman C. L. Emerson, F. B. Davenport, vice chairman, presided. Mr. Skinner was introduced by Alan M. Schoen, chief engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters' laboratories.

Mr. Skinner Friday made an inspection trip to Georgia Tech, and also visited Stone Mountain, arrangements being made by "Chip" Robert, of Robert & Co.; Dr. M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech, and H. A. Coles, district manager of the Atlanta branch of the Westinghouse concern.

Technical societies whose members were guests at the meeting included American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Chemical society, American Institute of Architects, and all student branches of technical societies at Georgia Tech.

TROOPS ARE ASKED TO PATROL MINES

Pineville, Ky., April 4.—Quiet obtained today at the mining camp of the Liberty Coal & Coke Co., on Straight creek, following the shooting to death yesterday of George Lucas, and the wounding of Edward Dishman, non-union miners.

Mining operations were suspended following the shooting. Governor Fields, in a message from Frankford, asked company officials and miners' representatives to meet with him to arbitrate the existing differences. Tonight neither side had indicated what answer would be made.

Martin Green, Bell county sheriff, requested the governor to send national guard troops after bloodhounds from Lafollette, Tenn., failed today to pick up the trail of the hidden marksmen. Advices from Frankfort were that the governor had refrained from calling out guardsmen at present. Meanwhile, many reports were in circulation, including one that guardsmen quietly had been ordered to camp and that a large number of dissatisfied miners were gathering in the hills nearby.

The trouble is said to be an outgrowth of company action in placing the mines on an open-shop basis.

GEORGIA-FRENCH LINE TO BEGIN OPERATION

Savannah, Ga., April 4.—(Special.) The Niagara, French line steamship, will leave New Orleans for Savannah Sunday on her first visit at this port. She will arrive Wednesday.

Her coming marks the beginning of regular monthly sailings direct from Savannah to Havre, France, a connection for a long time sought by Savannah. She has accommodations for 200 passengers, giving the southeastern port a direct passenger touch with French ports.

New York, April 4.—The advance in cotton was further stimulated today by reports of a more active demand for cotton goods and prices made new high ground for the movement. May contracts sold up to 30.54 or 99 points net higher, and fully 4 cents a pound above the recent low level. They reacted later to 30.20 and closed at 30.35 with the general market closing steady at a net advance of 54 to 80 points.

The market opened at a decline of 5 points on May, but generally 3 to 30 points higher on bullish Liverpool advices, combined with reports of rains in the south. Realizing sales responsible for the opening decline in May were quickly absorbed and the market started upward on reports that a much larger business was developing in the goods trade at advancing prices. The advance found further encouragement in the week-end statistics and all offerings were readily absorbed until prices were 60 to 99 points net higher, with July selling at 29.39 and October at 25.60. Realizing then became more active and there were reactions of 25 to 30 points accompanied by rumors of slightly freer spot offerings in the south.

The close was within 15 to 19 points of the best.

GAINS ARE SEEN AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, April 4.—The cotton market made a further substantial advance today with very active trading and wide fluctuations. Opening slightly lower in sympathy with poor cables, with May at 29.60, July at 28.30, and October at 24.22, or 3 to 14 points down from the previous close, prices advanced rapidly during the morning until May traded as high as 30.98, July 29.32 and October at 24.92, representing net gains of 124, 98 and 67 points respectively over yesterday's close. There was a fair reaction during the afternoon on profit taking and some short selling, but the close, nevertheless, showed net gains for the day of 69 to 82 points on old crop positions and 45 to 50 on new crop months.

Although the start was disappointing owing to lower Liverpool cables than due, the market soon gathered strength on the weather map showing general rains in the belt and on the official forecast for unsettled weather and more rain. News was received from New York to the effect that the dry goods market was active and that 250,000 pieces of goods were sold yesterday, being the largest day's sales of the year, and that prices had been advanced about 1-2c a yard. It was also claimed that four times as much could have been sold at the previous prices, but buyers balked at the advance. Fall River also reported sales of 100,000 pieces of print cloths for the week.

These advices supplemented by cables reporting Manchester doing a very active business and liberal trade calling and short covering in Liverpool caused active covering by shorts and good trade buying, rapidly advancing prices. Although there was a brief period of reaction following the first spurt on fears of small mill takings, the market gathered fresh upward impetus when it was found that mill takings for the week were 208,000 bales, or much larger than expected, and May scored an advance of more than $6 a bale over yesterday's close before the advance was checked.

The market reacted fairly during the afternoon on profit taking mainly and on the theory that the recent advance had been a little too rapid and some reaction was due.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letter.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, April 4.—We again call attention to the utility of attempting to forecast the course of the market as a whole. Aside from technical fluctuations individual stocks or groups will continue to reflect the position of the industries represented. Rails, oils and coppers appear to be in line for more extended advances than the average industrial although there are many high-grade industrial issues that appear to be working for higher prices.

Cotton Letters.

POST AND FLAGG.

New York, April 4.—The market is undergoing a readjustment of the badly-strained technical position and how far that will have to go is not possible to estimate. Much speculative short covering has been done which implies some easing of the strain but the real short position is the world-wide shortage of goods due to excellent retail distribution and the persistent policy of procrastination about filling in the gaps in stocks.

FENNER & BEANE.

New Orleans, April 4.—We believe the weather and spot situation is working in favor of buyers but the advance has been so rapid of late that we would not be surprised to see a temporary reaction from profit takings. Higher prices, however, appear inevitable in the near future, unless the weather clears quickly.

LIVINGSTON & COMPANY.

New York, April 4.—We believe the tide has definitely turned. Reactions are, of course, to be expected, but in view of the evidence of a distinct revival in the goods' markets, steadily diminishing supplies and lateness of the new crop we believe cotton a purchase on all good setbacks.

HUBBARD BROTHERS & CO.

New York, April 4.—After such a sharp advance as we have had, some reaction at any moment is to be expected and with the spinners' takings this week of 187,034 bales against 199,055 last week and 220,580 last year, it would appear that the question of how we are to get through on a limited supply of cotton is still to be solved. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow; May, 17.87; July 17.28.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, La., April 4.—While some good will likely come of the Dawes investigation as to Germany's ability to pay reparations chances are that the report, expected soon, will not be accepted in its present form.

RAIL MORTGAGES SEE HEAVY GAINS

Total sales $14,752,000.
Ten first-grade rails averaged 86.86; net gain .31.
Ten secondary rails averaged 84.93; net gain .21.
Ten public utilities averaged 87.90; net gain .20.
Ten industrials averaged 93.47; net loss .03.
Combined average 88.29; net gain .17.
Combined average month ago 87.38; year ago 86.32.

New York, April 4.—Under the leadership of the New Haven issues, railroad bonds staged a spirited rally in today's active trading. Improvement was general in a variety of liens, with the average of high grade investments showing the best gains for the day.

The of the New Haven mortgages, several ordinarily inactive, were dealt in with unusually brisk activity in the five leading issues which advanced 1 to 3 points. Buying was based on the announcement of E. J. Pearson, president of the road, in his annual report to stockholders that plans were under consideration for refunding or extending maturing obligations.

Investment buying of railroad stocks also was accompanied by a wider inquiry for bonds, reflected in rising prices for Denver and Rio Grande issues, Inland Great Northern 6s, Erie General 4s, Great Northern 7s and Northern Pacific 4s. Wickwire-Spencer 7s recovered an additional 3 points and Copper Bonds displayed continued improvement.

Huge transactions in Liberty Bonds, including the turnover of two $1,000,000 blocks of the fourth 4 1-4s, were credited to institutional buying. Prices in the government list generally tended lower.

Reports were current that the Pennsylvania soon would enter the market to borrow $50,000,000 for construction of a new Philadelphia terminal.

Average of 20 Rail Stocks Touches New High for 1924

DAY'S SUMMARY.

Total stock sales 912,500.
Twenty industrials averaged 95.30; net gain .39.
High, 1924, 101.24; low 93.08.
Twenty railroads averaged 86.32; net gain .60.
High 1924, 86.32; low 82.74.

New York, April 4.—Constructive forces were at work in today's more active stock market, continued strength of the railroad shares being accompanied by bullish demonstrations in the oils, steels and public utilites. So brisk was the demand for railroad shares that the average of 20 railroad stocks establishing a new 1924 high.

Operations on the long side, while more aggressive than hitherto this week, were restricted somewhat by the apparent disposition of several large operators to await publication of the Dawes report and senate action on the tax reduction bill before extending their commitments. Short covering, apparently based on the belief that the recent reaction had been overdone, was particularly noticeable in the industrials.

United States Steel common crossed par for the first time since the middle of February, closing 1 1-4 higher at 100 3-8, its best price of the day, despite predictions that the tonnage statement for March to be issued next week would show a reduction in unfilled orders. Gulf States Steel advanced 1 3-4 and Crucible 1 1-2, the other independents improving fractionally.

Buying power in rails was well distributed. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico touching a new 1924 high at 112. "Big Four" jumped 9 points and Omaha 2 3-4, while Rock Island, Erie first preferred, Delaware and Hudson, Western Pacific preferred and Wabash preferred B advanced 1 to 2 1-2 points. Southern Pacific, strong yesterday, dropped back more than a point on realizing sales.

Oils were bought on reports that consumption was rapidly overtaking production, gains of a point or so being recorded by the Pan-American issues, Houston, Standard Oil of California, Mexican Seaboard and Phillips. Strength of Utah securities, which jumped more than 4 points to 28 1-4, featured the public utility list.

Buying of Marine preferred was in expectation of benefits likely to accrue from the increase in freight rates from United States ports, which will be put in effect May 1 by European shipping companies. Declaration of the regular dividend on U. S. Rubber first preferred, which previously had been reported in danger, resulted in that stock being pushed up more than 3 points to 83 1-4 on active short covering.

Call money opened at 4 per cent, advanced to 4 1-2 and then to 5 when an increased demand developed for funds over the week-end. The ruling rates for time money and commercial paper were 4 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet. Demand sterling held fairly steady just above $4.30 and French francs ruled around 5 3-4 cents. Spanish pesetas jumped 33 points to 13.37 cents.

GRAINS DECLINE ON HEAVY SELLING

Chicago, April 4.—Increased selling pressure, together with lack of sustained demand, led to a setback in price today for future deliveries of corn. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1-2 to 5-8@3-4 cent net lower, May 78 1-2@5-8 to 78 5-8 cents. Wheat also finished unsettled, 1-8 to 1-2 cent down, May $1.01 3-4 to $1.01 7-8, and July $1.03 1-8, with oats 1-4@3-8 to 5-8 cent off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

For a while after the opening, corn showed something of an upward tendency in response to liberal buying of the May delivery and was a result of continued smallness of receipts, arrivals in Chicago today amounting to only 47 carloads. However, the fact that the market was up 5 cents from the recent low led many traders to look for at least a temporary reaction, and operated as a deterrent against purchasing. Eastern shipping was said to show some improvement, but this circumstance was more than offset by enlarged offerings of future deliveries as the day wore on. A little raily in futures, though, was apparent at the last.

Notwithstanding estimates that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken for shipment to Europe, wheat values here sagged throughout the day. Fine weather and the fact that United States wheat was held at above a world parity appeared to be more or less responsible, offsetting the influence of further buying on the part of domestic mills. Seeding of spring wheat was reported as more than half complete in parts of southern Minnesota and South Dakota.

Word that oats were being seeded at some points in Illinois had a bearish effect on the oats market.

Higher quotations on hogs gave a lift to provisions.

GRAIN LETTER.

Chicago, April 4.—WHEAT: Narrow market with limited outside interest and rallied only feebly from the low point. Comparative firmness in Winnipeg was taken to indicate further sales of Canadian wheat to United States mills. Seaboard estimated around 300,000 worked including some durums. Milling demand continues fair with sales reported 80,000. Bradstreet's weekly clearances, 5,500,000. Conditions generally show little change and market looks scalping affair barring crop damage.

CORN: Firm at the start, a local house recently prominent on bull side being liberal buyer of May, part of which was sold out later. The short interest appears to be satisfied and the market received very poor support and declined sharply at midday. A better business for shipment was reported, with sales 105,000 bushels. Kansas City reported increased country offerings and cash ½ to 1½ lower. Country offerings here showed a slight increase, mostly from Iowa for deferred shipment. Much of the buying lately has been based on light receipts, which are customary at this time of year, and the market's action would indicate that a better demand for shipment will have to appear in order to maintain prices as offerings are expected to increase with the completion of oats seeding.

OATS: Were bought by cash interests early but declined later when corn turned weak and on a report of a cargo condition, oats being offered at 3¾ over Chicago May f. o. b Buffalo. Reports of seeding under way in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana, and unless rain interferes seeding will become general.

RYE: Easier on selling by houses with northwest connection. There was some buying here to close spreads with other markets. Interest is beginning to center in the July.

PROVISIONS: Smaller packers and houses with foreign interests sold lard. Buying credited to eastern interests. Hogs, 5c up; top, $7.55.—Fenner & Beane.

Heavy Decrease in Raw Silk Imports Shown During March

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, April 4.—Some very interesting deductions may be drawn from today's statement of raw silk imports here in New York for the month of March, which were 16,692 bales, the smallest for the same month since 1919, when 15,400 was reported. For February of this year the figures were 25,632 and for January 32,364. Stocks on hand April 1 were 30,375 bales against 40,226 March 1, the monthly stock average for 1923 was 33,367 bales. Deliveries for March were 26,543 bales against 29,804 for February; 32,925 for January and 29,747, the monthly average for 1923.

Contracts were signed by the Foundation company during the first quarter of 1924, it was stated today, for $11,000,000 worth of construction work, compared with $23,000,000 for the whole of 1923. Officials estimate that $50,000,000 of new business will be booked this year and that finished business will amount to $35,000,000.

Notices have been posted at the Warren Cotton mills of Warren, Mass., that there will be further curtailment of production, today's Boston dispatches announce. The company has been operating on a four-day week basis. Private wires from Boston also announce that employees of Wellequotee Worsted company at Hudson, Mass., have been asked to accept a 20 per cent cut in wages until conditions in the textile indstry show improvement. This is the first move in this industry to bring about a reduction in wages.

Pittsburg hears from Youngstown, today's private wires state, that Ford has issued hold-up orders against sheet tonnage about to be rolled.

BIG ADVANCE SEEN IN CURB MARKET

New York, April 4.—Pronounced strength developed in several sections of today's curb market, one of the most active in recent weeks.

High priced oils were bid up vigorously, net gains of 5 to 12 points being recorded by Swan and Finch, Solar Refining, Borne and Scrymzer and Standard Oil of Nebraska, the last named touching a new 1924 high at 247 1-2. South American Oils were again active, Creole Syndicate touching a new top at 5 5-8.

A 4 1-4 point jump in Glen Alden Coal, which touched a new year's high at 93, was outstanding development in the industrial group. Repetti Candy, another active feature, was run up from 50 to 94 cents a share on reports of a substantial increase in sales in the first quarter of this year. Lehigh Power securities climbed nearly 3 points to 60 3-4, also a new 1924 high, and Durant Motors moved up a point to 23.

Kay Copper was again the most active feature in the mining group.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR HELD TO GRAND JURY

Under a charge of voluntary manslaughter, Hugh Ford, student at the Southern Dental college, Friday morning was held to the grand jury under a $300 bond.

Ford was the driver of an automobile that struck a telephone pole on Ponce de Leon avenue, near Moreland avenue the morning of March 1, resulting in the death of Walter M. Gorman, another dental student, who was riding in the machine.

TROLLEY SERVICE INTERRUPTED BY SLIGHT WASHOUT

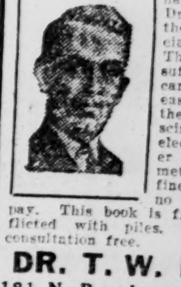

Street car service on Buckhead, Oglethorpe and West Peachtree lines was interrupted Friday due to a slight washout on West Peachtree street just north of Fourteenth street, at a point where the city is constructing a sewer.

Buckhead and Oglethorpe cars on West Peachtree street have been rerouted on Peachtree street.

West Peachtree cars are continuing their regular schdule up to the city's construction work near Fourteenth street, and passengers are being transferred there across the construction work, where the shuttle service runs between the construction work and the end of the line.

It is contemplated that repairs will be made so that all cars can resume regular schedules not later than Monday.

Piles Cured
WITHOUT SURGERY

An instructive book has been published by Dr. T. W. Hughes, the noted rectal specialist of Atlanta. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. This book is free to persons afflicted with piles. Examination and consultation free.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY

Forecaster Promises Dry Saturday.

Fair weather, with not much change in temperature, is the meteorological menu for Atlanta for Saturday. The rains Friday stopped long before midnight, and the local forecaster is convinced that golf and baseball lovers will enjoy a bright and dry day. The Washington forecast for Georgia is "unsettled."

The temperature Friday was a little warmer than that of Thursday, the 7 a. m. reading yesterday being 44 degrees, compared to 38 degrees at the same hour Thursday. It will be about the same Saturday says the weatherman. The Texas storm, reported Thursday, moved southeast with great rapidity and rains were general Friday over the entire cotton belt with the exception of Texas. High winds were reported on the gulf coast.

Present indications are for fair weather in Atlanta on Sunday.

FUNERAL OF C. W. COBB WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Charles W. Cobb, Atlanta real estate man, who died Thursday morning at a private hospital, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning from the Hopewell church, near Gainesville. Interment will be in the Hopewell cemetery.

Mr. Cobb, who was 53 years old, moved to Atlanta about a year ago, and was affiliated with the Beach-Lemon Realty company here. He was a Mason and a member of the First Baptist church.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by four daughters, Misses Mamie, Cora, Alice and Evelyn Cobb; four sons, Neal, Billy, Jack and Aaron Cobb; five brothers, W. J., J. D., T. J., M. R., and Edwin Cobb, and two sisters, Mrs. John Doss and Mrs. H. D. Thompson.

WOMAN INJURED BY SLEUTH'S CAR

Throwing a chicken and several grocery packages into the street as she became frightened at the approach of an automobile, Mrs. K. Goldstein, of 343 South Pryor street, Friday night was struck and severely bruised and cut by a car driven by Detective J. Hiram Davis, who was en route to work at the time. The accident occurred not far from her home.

Stopping his machine, Officer Davis carried the injured woman to Grady hospital, later taking her to the Piedmont sanatorium at her request.

In his report of the accident to Captain M. V. Barnett, of the accident prevention bureau, Officer Davis stated that Mrs. Goldstein became confused when she observed his machine approaching and grabbed hold of the car as she stepped backward.

J. E. Lee and Jack Stewart, both employed in the state highway department, were bruised and cut in a collision between the auto Lee was driving and an army truck driven by Private Earl Smith, attached to company K at Fort McPherson.

The accident occurred on Lee street, near Campbellton road, about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Lee was bringing Stewart to the hospital for treatment at the time. They were passing the army truck, which, according to Lee and Stewart, turned suddenly to the left, striking the rear of their car, forcing it against a post.

'SOIL BUILDER' MAKERS SEEK FERTILIZER RULE

A friendly suit may be waged in the courts to test certain portions of the Georgia law in regard to the testing and guaranteeing of fertilizers. The object of the suit will be to define what products come under the classification of fertilizers. It will be brought in all probability by the Vitamina company, of Macon, Ga.

This company recently has been in correspondence with J. J. Brown, state commissioner of agriculture, in regard to the sale of their product in this state. They describe their goods as a "soil builder," and make extensive claims for its value in increasing the fertility of the soil in their advertising matter.

Holds It Is Fertilizer.

The commissioner held that a "soil builder," such as they described Vitamina to be, was nothing more nor less than a form of fertilizer, and as such it must not be sold in the state until samples have been analyzed and approved by the department of agriculture, the state fertilizer tag tax paid and license for the sale issued. Also the goods must comply with the law by containing at least 12 per cent of plant food and the label must state clearly the guaranteed minimum contents of certain ingredients as required under the Georgia law.

Attorney General George M. Napier has issued a comprehensive opinion on the point, in which he upholds the position of Commissioner Brown.

Will Not Give Guarantee.

The Vitamina company offered to pay the fertilizer tag tax, but said that the nature of their product prevented them complying with the law as to guaranteed percentage of plant food content and as to analysis by the agricultural department.

While no definite statement as to the future course of the company has been forthcoming, it is intimated in its correspondence that it may bring a friendly action for mandamus to compel the commissioner to issue this license, thus testing out once and for all the exact meaning of the law on this point.

Altamaha Bridge On Cotton Belt Highway Asked

The urgent request of representatives of seven counties of south Georgia for construction of a steel and concrete bridge over the Altamaha river on the Cotton Belt highway was taken under advisement at a meeting of the state highway board Friday. The delegation, composed of prominent men from the counties represented, and including several members of the Georgia general assembly, urged that the bridge be built this year, if possible, and if not, that it be placed on the program for the early part of 1925.

The bridge, the estimated cost of which would be $250,000, would be on the direct route connecting Lyons, county seat of Toombs county, and Baxley, county seat of Appling county. At present no bridge spans the river at that site, and the stream has to be crossed by ferry.

The bridge also would be on the Cotton Belt highway, claimed to be the shortest direct highway from Anderson, S. C., through Georgia to Jacksonville. The delegates who appeared before the board Friday explained that this highway is 116 miles shorter than any other road from Anderson to Jacksonville, and that a bridge over the Altamaha at that point would do much toward making the road the main thoroughfare through Georgia. With the exception of a 15-mile stretch, the entire road is a federal state highway.

The delegates, numbering more than twenty, represented Bacon, Appling, Toombs, Emanuel, Jefferson, Wilkes and Ware counties.

HOLD LAST SERVICES FOR I. L. STEVENS TODAY

Funeral services for I. L. Stevens, veteran of Gettysburg and Appomattox during the Civil war, aide of General Robert E. Lee and retired planter of Mitchell county, whose death occurred at his home at Meigs, Ga., Thursday, will be held from the home today.

Mr. Stevens had been associated with civic and charitable movements in Mitchell county for many years.

He is survived by his widow; four sons, S. A. Stevens, Canada; Benjamin M. Stevens, a student of the Georgia School of Technology; Dozier Stevens, of Charlotte, N. C.; four daughters, Mrs. G. W. Hall, of Hartsfield, Ga., and Misses Carrie, Bessie and Addie Mae Stevens, of Meigs, and seven grandchildren.

Tech High Minstrels To Present Playlet, "Read 'Em an' Weep"

"Read 'Em, an' Weep," a three act playlet portraying the trials of several negro "gamboliers," will be presented by the Tech High school minstrels at 8 o'clock tonight at the Hapeville auditorium.

The play, which is sponsored by the Hapeville Parent-Teacher association, was originally scheduled for March 28, but was postponed because of the illness of E. P. Ennis, director.

ATLANTA MAN DIES IN TAXI AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., April 4.—N. C. Woolrdge, general agent of the Texas and Pacific railway, with headquarters in Atlanta, died in a taxicab here tonight shortly before 8 o'clock from acute indigestion.

Wooldridge reached Savannah this morning in ill health, and during the day had consulted physicians. After nightfall he had left his hotel to take a short walk and felt too ill to continue, calling a taxicab with directions to carry him to Liberty and Jefferson streets. He told the driver he was feeling badly. As the cab approached its destination the driver turned to ask his passenger to which corner he wished to be driven and found him unconscious and in a reclining position.

He was hurriedly taken to a physician and died while being examined.

Mr. Wooldridge was transferred to Atlanta soon after the beginning of the war, and was in charge of transportation of the Texas and Pacific railway here during the period when the road was under government control. Later he was made general agent.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Willis M. Everett, Jr., of Atlanta.

The body will be brought to Atlanta this morning and will be taken to the residence, 79 Oakdale road, Druid Hills. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WED AT 12, WOMAN NOW GRANDMOTHER AT 29; HUSBAND 34

A grandmother, and only 29 years old, is the unique distinction enjoyed by Mrs. W. T. Carr, of 119 South Warren street, Kirkwood. And her husband is only 34 years old. Mr. and Mrs. Carr eloped and were married when he was 17 years old and she 12. Their first child was born a year later.

At the age of 16, that child, Estelle Carr, was married to Earl LeRoy Lytle, and they are now the parents of Jean Elizabeth Lytle, aged six weeks. In addition to Mrs. Lytle, Mr. and Mrs. Carr are the parents of Miss Ruby Carr, 15; Henry Carr, 13, and Cleo Carr, 8.

The entire Carr family is musically inclined, and Mr. Carr, Miss Ruby Carr, and Mr. and Mrs. Lytle comprise a family orchestra, and also play in the Kirkwood Baptist church and Imperial Entertainers' orchestra.

Commenting on his early elopement, Mr. Carr said, "I think both of us would do it ever again. We were in love with each other then, and still are."

Population Jumps 11,625 in Year, Directory Shows

Amazing accounts of Atlanta's remarkable increase in population, its industrial expansion, and many other interesting revelations are included in the new city directory issued Friday, the 47th published in the city's history, and one of the most complete ever published here.

The new directory affords the annual excuse for mentioning funny-sounding names, freak statistical information, and the jumble of names of streets, avenues and roads. More or less interesting mention is included in the directory of climate, health conditions, factory sites, and other information which the ordinary citizen knows little or nothing about.

An increase in population of 11,625 persons since January 1, 1923, is made in the new directory, placing the estimated population at the present time at 251,625—an average estimated increase of 775 persons each month since January, 1924.

Extensive Buyer's Guide.

A buyer's guide of 131 pages and a street guide and directory of households take up 304 additional pages. No phase of activity of the city is omitted, and the publisher, the Atlanta City Directory company, is receiving the thanks and congratulations of Atlantans for what is regarded as probably the most complete directory in Atlanta's history.

Included in the list of unusual names of persons appearing in the new directory are Beard, Legg, Finger, Hair, Bunion, Cartledge, Cheek Chin, Head, Heel, Dimple, Curl, Nail, Shanks, Pate, Wrinkle, Hand, Foote, Musselman, Christian, Sharp, Dull, Sweat, Blood, Stocks, Bons, Low, Boote, Shoemaker, Shields, Swords, Spears, Peace, Gunn and others.

Other unusual names listed are Ham, Bacon, Broom, Brush, Clock, Dial, Coffee, Teas, Dark, Light, Keen, Dull, High, Low, Jack, Game, Riddle, Guess, Pepper, Spice, Pickle, Sweets, Hay, Straw, Sandwich, Beer, Looney, Sane, Near and Farr.

One may also fin dthe names Beagle, Bear, Beaver, Buck, Bull, Bullock, Colt, "Dobbin," Fox, Hart, Hind, Lamb, Leopard, Link, Seal and Wolf; Canary, Chick, Crow, Dove, Drake, Duck, Eagle, Hawk, Heron, Jay, Lark, Mallard, Peacock, Raven, Rook, Robins, Snipe, Sparrow, Starling, Swan and Teal; Bonds, Cash, Coin, Cale, Diamond, Fortune, Gold, Hoard, Kroger, Marks, Penny, Pfenning, Pounds, Purse, Rich, Ruble, Silver and Sapphire; Dollar, Nickel and Dime appear also. The names of Cross, Ivy, Lavender, Nettles, Palm, Plant, Root, Thorn, Vines, Weed, Bush, Bough; also fruits, Apple, Berry, Cherry, Citron, Lemon, Peach, Pear suggest nature.

Much Interesting Data.

Interesting data concerning Atlanta institutions follow:

Banking capital, $10,450,000; surplus and undivided profits, $14,939,289.90; deposits, $129,198,058.71; total banking resources, $184,536,908.51; bank clearings, $2,733,986,892; postal receipts, $3,265,905.74; building costs, $27,094,912; assessed valuation, $292,994,179; tax exempt, $60,000,000; of the present population 172,000 are white; 77,000 are negroes, and 300 are of mixed races; factories, over 600, producing over 1,500 articles, valued at $250,000,000 per year.

The new directory shows that Atlanta business houses have 90,000 customers in seven southeastern states; that the city has increased 35 per cent in population since 1910; that the assessed values of Atlanta real estate is $292,994,179, not including exemptions on public buildings, churches, hospitals, etc., of about $60,000,000; and that the assessed value of Fulton county property is $189,881,560 plus $45,000,000 exempt.

The publishers state that a library of directories of the principal cities of the country and state gazetteers is maintained by them at the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for the free use of patrons and the public.
